

Vacant Property Update as of May 18

The properties listed below are a summary of the actions taken by State Representative John Taylor, with the help of the community, to address blighted properties throughout the district. Please note that all property owners must be afforded due process. Accordingly, the real property must fail two (2) inspections before the City of Philadelphia takes the owner to Court. Due to legislation passed by Representative Taylor (Act 90), the City can now go after an owner's personal property to collect fines and penalties for violations of the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. Should you wish to report a blighted, vacant residence in your neighborhood, please contact Marc Collazzo, District Office Manager to Representative John Taylor, at 215-744-2600. Mr. Collazzo goes to the property and takes pictures of its current condition before providing the complaint to the City of Philadelphia, the property owner and/or the appropriate agency. Should you wish to track the progress of any property turned into Philly 311, please go to www.phila.gov, then click on "Philly 311" and type in the ticket number. To obtain a complete License and Inspections history for an individual property, go to www.phila.gov/li, then type in the address under "Property History." 2307 East Clearfield Street: Ticket Nos. 2134707 and 2612854. The vacant property was reported to have missing windows and inadequate door coverage. The exterior of the premises was in disrepair. On February 9, 2012, Inspector Curran of the City of Philadelphia conducted a pre-Court inspection. The property "passed" and the case closed. As confirmed by Indira Scott, Chief of Staff for former L&I Commissioner, Fran Burns, the owner(s) have a valid work permit to repair the rear house wall (Permit No. 310022), and Marc Concrete and Construction was doing rehabilitative work on the premises. There is still an open violation for a fractured wall (L&I Service No. 165123), as of February 15, 2013. As of September 21, 2012, the renovations have been completed and the parcel is now in compliance. Taylor will continue to monitor progress. As of November 5, 2012, Taylor had not received any new complaints regarding this real property. However, on November 9, 2012, Taylor sent an updated request for service to Philly 311 as the front, upper windows had been removed and the front door had been forced open to allow ingress/egress. In addition, Taylor forwarded correspondence to the property owners, Haxhi and Lirie Kupa, 3080 Aramingo Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19134, to demand immediate action to secure this parcel. The new investigation is pending, however, as a result of Taylor's intervention, the owners padlocked the door. In fact, the owner has an active alteration permit, updated on March 26, 2012, for repair of the rear house wall. The permit no. 310022, and the contractor Marc Concrete & CTI, 4535 North 13th Street, Philadelphia, PA 19140. In addition, on February 1, 2013, Marianne C. Baker, Baker Architects, 3204 Belgreen Road, Philadelphia, PA 19154, obtained an alteration permit (No. 447754) for contractor, Qazim Kupa, 4 Cove Street, Hainesport, NJ 08036, to repair the front wall. On July 13, 2014, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued a violation for the utilizing the property for a new use (duplex) without the proper permits (L&I Case No. 442444). On September 15, 2014, the owners, Haxhi and Lirie Kupa, 3080 Aramingo Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19134, obtained a housing inspection license, no. 641548, which expires on the last day of February of 2015. On or about October 28, 2014, the owners made all necessary repairs. Accordingly, there are no open violations.

2620 East Madison Street: Ticket Nos. 2250238 and 2632039. The vacant property had open doors and windows in violation of the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. The Department of Licenses and Inspections issued initial violations on January 18, 2012. On May 3, 2012, Taylor forwarded a request for a status update to the Department of Licenses and Inspection, and was informed that no further action had been taken, so an inspector would visit the property within thirty (30) days. On May 25, 2012, Taylor requested a status update from L&I. L&I advised Taylor that the Housing Code Enforcement Unit “cleaned and sealed” the property on March 30, 2012, and a subsequent inspection revealed no openings (L&I Service No. 312768). Taylor and his staff will continue to monitor this parcel. On November 15, 2012, Taylor sent in a new request for service due to resident complaints of the rear yard being covered in refuse and debris. The Housing Code Enforcement Unit sent this property to Court for violations listed as “license-Res SFD/2FD” and “Co Detector Needed” (L&I Service No. 190513). This parcel was cleaned and sealed on or about October 24, 2014. On February 27, 2015, the property owner informed Taylor that he removed the front entry plywood with orange sign, installed two (2) new padlocks with a lockbox.

2135 East Clearfield Street: Ticket Nos. 314232 and 2270017. The vacant real property had open windows and doors, as well as the exterior siding falling off of the structure. The City of Philadelphia has two (2) open cases and on March 20, 2012, the City of Philadelphia confirmed that the Department of Licenses and Inspections issued violations against the owner. In fact, the case for ticket no. 314232 was sent to Municipal Court on April 10, 2012, and is still listed in Pre-Court status. On May 3, 2012, Taylor forwarded a request for a status update from the Department of Licenses and Inspections, and on May 8, 2012, Taylor spoke with Inspector indicated that he would return to the subject property to determine the owner’s compliance. The inspector indicated that he is working with the owner(s) to remediate the existing violations. On June 7, 2012, Taylor again requested a status of compliance for the two (2) open cases and is awaiting a response from L&I. On June 8, 2012, Taylor was informed that the case under ticket no. 2270017 is still pending and, in fact, Inspector Guglielmo inspected the property on June 7, 2012 and that the Clean and Seal Unit abated the property. In regard to the collapsed rear, L&I will refer to the Emergency Unit. On July 26, 2012, Taylor contacted L&I for a Court status, and he was informed that L&I issued a violation for the rear wall (ticket no. 335084) on June 23, 2012, and the re-inspection was scheduled for July 24, 2012. On August 9, 2012, Taylor forwarded a status request to L&I. On August 14, 2012 Taylor learned that Inspector Curran cited the parcel for the partial collapse of a wall and a tree growing out of the foundation of the rear breezeway (335084). In addition, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit cleaned and sealed the property due to the owner failing to secure the vacant parcel (L&I service Nos. 314230). Finally, there were prior violations attached to the property including two (2) for vacant property and one for failure to register this real property as vacant. L&I referred this matter to court for failure to obtain a license for a vacant, residential building. (L&I Service No. 314232). L&I informed

Taylor that the owner is now in compliance with service number 314232 and has a vacant property license. The violation under service number 335084 is still listed as “not complied”, and was sent to Court on December 23, 2013..

3625-29 Tulip Street: Ticket No. 2183216. Complaint made to Philly 311 on or about March 26, 2012, due to the broken windows on the subject property. In addition, the siding is breaking off the exterior of the structure. An Inspector from the Department of Licenses and Inspections inspected the complaint on March 30, 2012. The case was closed after owner made necessary repairs.

3184 Belgrade Street: Ticket Nos. 2138369, 2220775 and 3432599. On February 27, 2012, the initial complaint was submitted to Maura Kennedy of the Department of Licenses and Inspections. The owner of the subject property was incarcerated and the property vacant. However, the back door was open to ingress/egress, there was no active gas or water, and the property had become infested with vermin. On March 2, 2012, an Inspector issued violations for the aforementioned conditions and there will be a re-inspection on or about April 25, 2012, to determine whether the property is subject to a “clean and seal.” On May 3, 2012, Taylor sent a request for a status update to Inspector Curran, and the inspector confirmed that violations were written on May 1, 2012 for case number 2220775 (vacant property and bulging front wall), with a compliance date of June 3, 2012. The matter has not yet been scheduled for any Court action by the City of Philadelphia due to the owner’s incarceration. However, Inspector Curran confirmed that the doors and windows had been properly secured. As of May 2, 2012, the Contractual Services Unit of L&I has active cases against this property for a bulging front wall, an unsafe/unsecured vacant property, and failing to register a vacant property, respectively (L&I Service Nos. 326320 and 318302). All violations are still listed as “not complied”. On March 13, 2013, Taylor sent up a follow up request to Philly 311 and L&I to request demolition as it is inherently unsafe. On March 25, 2013, Taylor sent a follow-up for assistance to Michael Manner of L&I, Inspector Michael Curran and Officer Tina Willis of the 24th Police District, respectively. Currently, the subject parcel remains on the City of Philadelphia’s demolition list. On June 18, 2013, Taylor forwarded an inquiry to Otis Haigler of L&I, and is awaiting a status report. On June 21, 2013, Mr. Haigler contacted Taylor, who indicated that the next inspection had been scheduled for August 24, 2013, but due to Taylor’s intervention, said inspection was moved up to the week of June 24, 2013. On July 8, 2013, Otis Haigler of L&I confirmed that the property was inspected on June 26, 2013, and the property was given the classification of “unsafe” under Section PM-307 of the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. Mr. Haigler informed Taylor that there were no demolition plans at this time, and that L&I will pursue additional enforcement actions through the Courts as required by law to compel the owner to repair the property or face substantial fines and penalties that the Judge may impose. Finally, Mr. Haigler stated that L&I will continue to monitor to the property to see if conditions change to warrant a reclassification to “Imminently Dangerous” as defined by Section PM-308. On November 20, 2013, a local resident informed Taylor that part of the house fell, so L&I put it in for a clean and seal. On November 21, 2013, L&I placed barricades around the real property. On November 9, 2013, the Contractual Services Unit sent violation no. 3266320 to Court. On February 7, 2014, the property owners brought the violations under case no. 326320 into compliance. The violation under case no. 318302 is still pending in Court. On March 7, 2014, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued a violation for failing to have a license for a vacant residential building (L&I Case No. 421272). Case No. 421272 was also sent to Court on June 24, 2014. On July 26, 2014, the Contractual Service Unit issued violations for missing bricks and a bulging front wall (L&I Case No. 444856). On September 5, 2014, the Contractual Services Unit issued violations for an unsafe property, which included front wall issues, as well as having open windows and doors (L&I Case No. 451130). On September 9, 2014, Rebecca Swanson of L&I informed Taylor that the matter has been forwarded to the Clean and Seal Unit for sealing. The parcel was cleaned and sealed. Scioli Turco has agreed to file a petition with the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County to appointed Conservator of the subject real estate under Act 135. On April 26, 2015, L&I posted a notice of demolition of the property within thirty (30) days. On or about May 26, 2015, Robert Beatty contacted Taylor and provided a copy of a Deed confirming that he purchased the subject property. Mr. Beatty confirmed that he would work with Taylor to remediate and abate the parcel. On July 23, 2015, Mr. Beatty informed Taylor that his structural engineer was at the parcel and would commence work to enforce and rehabilitate the real property commencing on July 27, 2015. The project should take 6-8 weeks. On or about, October 23, 2015, L&I found the new owner brought all open violations into compliance.

5101 Ditman Street: This vacant, corner property posed a danger to pedestrians as the side wall of the front porch, which was made of brick, was collapsing onto the sidewalk. In addition, the front porch was covered in trash and at least two (2) windows were broken on the second floor. On February 16, 2012, an Inspector from the City of Philadelphia inspected the premises and referred this parcel to the Housing Unit. On February 29, 2012, the Community Life Improvement Unit of the Department of Licenses and Inspections abated the property (L&I Service No. 315017). On January 12, 2017, Taylor had to again contact L&I and CLIP as the property was open to ingress/egress; there was trash and debris surrounding the exterior of the property; and the exterior fencing was falling down.

2017 Pratt Street: A constituent reported people had compromised doors and windows that had been secured by Chase Home Finance, who had foreclosed on this vacant property. Taylor spoke with the High Risk Violations Department and worked with them to re-seal the premises.

1634 East Hewson Street: Ticket No. 2148149. Vacant, corner property with unsecured doors and windows. Bricks starting to come loose at the rear of the structure. The complaint was initiated to Philly 311 on March 5, 2012, and on March 13, 2012, the City was found to be in compliance with the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. On September 5, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued a violation for failing to have a license for a vacant residential property (L&I Case No. 400745).

4773 Garden Street: Ticket No. 2140838. Taylor responded to complaints from adjacent neighbors regarding large trees in the backyard damaging the rear structure of the premises. The owner/resident passed away on February 14, 2012. An Inspector from the Department of Licenses and Inspections visited the property and issued violations on March 9, 2012, with a re-inspection on or about April 5, 2012. Taylor forwarded correspondence to the property owner's heir alerting her to the aforementioned issues. The property failed re-inspection on April 9, 2012 and the matter will be referred to Court. However, the heir is currently working with the City of Philadelphia to correct the violations, as well as attempting to sell the premises. On June 7, 2012, Taylor contacted Inspector Keenan (215-685-0535), who indicated that he is working with the heirs of the deceased property owner to bring the premises into compliance with the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. On August 1, 2012, Taylor followed up with Inspector Keenan to address the overgrown trees in the rear yard. The guardian complied with the previously issued standard vacant property violation against this parcel (318128), and the matter was closed.

4766 Richmond Street: Ticket Nos. 2942515, 3017208, 3576943 and 09239397. Several neighbors reported this property to Taylor. The entire side of the structure is separating from the house. In addition, the wood on the awning above the porch, as well as surrounding the windows, is rotted. In addition, the neighbors have complained of a foul odor emanating from the premises. A complaint was made to the Department of Licenses and Inspections on or about February 29, 2012. This is an open case for the City with several active violations against the owner(s). The property is due for re-inspection on May 2, 2012. The property failed re-inspection, and, as a result, the matter will be sent to Court. However, on Monday, May 7, 2012, Taylor and Marc Collazzo observed the side addition to the property collapsed! Taylor promptly contacted L&I Commissioner, Fran Burns, who confirmed that she would send Inspector Curran immediately out to the premises. As a result of said emergency inspection, L&I obtained a Court Order to demolish and clear the "side shed". On May 18, 2012, Indira Scott of L&I advised Taylor that the original order only required the clearing of the front portion of the shed. As a result, the L&I Inspector would obtain an amended order to demolish the entire side shed. On May 18, 2012, the owners obtained an alteration permit, no. 405995, for the demolition of the existing side porch and repair of the front porch. Although the side shed was cleaned out, the owner failed to remove or repair it. However, the Contractual Services Unit sent this property to Court for open violations for a deteriorated side bearing wall and side enclosed porch, as well as a deteriorated roof on the front and side porches (L&I Service No. 163337). As of July 3, 2013, the matter has not yet been decided by the Court. Moreover, L&I had open violations for a collapsed wall (side sun front porch and side walls), and roof (side sun porch) (L&I Service No. 326968). This violation was sent to Court on June 7, 2013. It is important to note that the City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $22,678.81 and on September 20, 2012, Taylor was informed that the city was preparing to sell this parcel by way of Sheriff's Sale. On November 5, 2012, Taylor was advised that the City Law Department was processing this property. The property has not yet been sold. On January 10, 2013, Taylor contacted the Fairmount Park Tree Commission to alert them to an overgrown, unstable tree. The Commission confirmed that pursuant to Taylor's original call in October of 2012, it was inspected and is on the City's list to cut/trim. On June 5, 2013, Taylor forwarded a request to Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP for debris and high grass/weeds in the rear yard (Ticket No. 2942515). On July 8, 2013, Taylor notified Joanne Dahme of PWD that residents are stealing water from 4764 Richmond Street. On July 17, 2013, L&I confirmed that they would be out to re-inspect the property within 5 business days due to its instability and falling bricks (Ticket No. 3017208). On July 18, 2013, Joanne Dahme, of the Philadelphia Water Department, stated that she was awaiting the response if the Water Revenue Department investigation regarding allegations of the occupants living in the premises with the water shut off and "stealing" the neighbor's water. On July 17, 2013, L&I issued a notice to the owner of demolition of the side shed and the front porch and the Contractual Services Unit forwarded this matter for prosecution in the Court of Common Pleas (Equity) Court. On July 27, 2013, Otis Barlow investigated the water complaint and found that there were no connections or tampering of service between 4764 and 4766 Richmond Street. The owner if the subject parcel is on the Water Revenue Assistance Program (WRAP), which is a low income budget plan. On September 5, 2013, Office Michael Wheeler of the 15th Police District spoke to Norman Mason of L&I, who confirmed that a Court Order to demolish the side shed and porch was filed in the Court and L&I is awaiting a response. On October 3, 2013, Norman Mason of L&I informed Taylor that he is still awaiting a court date to obtain the proper order to demolish the porch and side shed. On October 16, 2013, the front porch and side shed were demolished. On June 9, 2014, Taylor sent a request for assistant to Philly 311 as the rear porch and awning were unstable and on the verge of collapse sure to rotting wood. In addition, the rear yard is full of high weeds and refuse. Finally, the roof was also unstable, causing leaking into the subject and adjacent properties (ticket No. 3576943). On June 22, 2015, residents contacted Taylor to state that the parcel was now vacant, and that the interior of the property is infested with mold, refuse and debris. Moreover, there was fecal matter coming from the toilets as the owner had been residing in same without any utility service, including electric and water. Taylor immediately contacted Richard Quigley of L&I, as well as Philly 311, to have the property cleaned and sealed (Ticket No. 09239397). On January 21, 2016, Taylor contacted L&I Commissioner, David Perri, as the owner/occupant was residing in the property with no utilities and was putting paper in a heater for heat. Ann Pasquariello of the City of Philadelphia Law Department informed Taylor that L&I inspected the property on January 25, 2016, issued violations, and referred the owner to the appropriate agencies for assistance. L&I instructed the owner/occupant to not place paper near the heater, and installed working fire alarms. Finally, Ms. Pasquariello stated that this property will be placed back on the Sheriff's Sale list. On January 21, 2016, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations for rubbish and garbage in the living room, second floor front bedroom and the kitchen; electrical and heating hazards (including no gas service); and interior surface issues on the walls and ceiling on the first and second floors (L&I Case No. 517450). As a result, on February 25, 2016, Taylor referred this property to Scioli Turco to file a Conservatorship petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County. The City Law Department confirmed that the property is going up for Sheriff's Sale on March 16, 2016, due to unpaid real estate tax liens. The property was sold at Sheriff's Sale on April 20, 2016. Extensive renovations have been completed!

3477 Weikel Street: Ticket No. 2143445. The owner of this parcel is incarcerated and the property has been inhabited by “squatters”. The premises was covered in trash and debris and is now infested with vermin. The original inspection on March 12, 2012, was reported to be “unfounded.” However, Representative Taylor’s office spoke with the Inspector and, as a result, the City of Philadelphia re-opened the case and there will be a re-inspection the week of March 26, 2012. Re-inspection completed and no violations were issued. However, on or about May 27, 2007, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit sent this property to Court for “license-res SFD/2FD”; exterior steps repair; “SSD-REQD Exist Group R”; failure to maintain the windows and ceiling in the living room; “Int S-Walls Repair/Maint Sani” and “Elec-Outlet Min-Res” in the bathroom; failure to repair the roof; failure to weatherproof the front door; failure to repair/replace the window in the front bathroom; and failure to cover a defective electric plate (L&I Service No. 103245). Said violations are still listed as “not complied”.

2634 East Thompson Street: Ticket Nos. 3009752 and 3640356. This is a property formerly owned by Landvest LLC (Coyle property), and, on August 20, 2013, the City of Philadelphia sold this parcel to GNE Properties II, Inc., 9539 Bustleton Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19115. The assessed value of the subject property is $77,300.00. Due to problems with the roof and walls, the property owner in 2632 East Thompson Street suffered severe water damage in her home. Mr. Toppin ignored all calls from Taylor to attempt to address and correct this situation. As a result, a complaint was made to the City of Philadelphia and L&I issued initial violations on January 9, 2012. The property was re-inspected on or about March 29, 2012. The owner/guardian was not compliant, so Inspector Jones (215-685-1510) indicated that the matter would be brought to Court. The matter is still in Pre-Trial status. At the recommendation of Philly 311, on June 19, 2012, Taylor contacted Inspector Salter and Inspector Jones (215-685-1510). On July 6, 2012, Maura Kennedy of L&I advised Taylor that since this property is owned by Landvest/Robert Coyle, and therefore part of an underlying Federal Court prosecution, the City cannot take this parcel to Court until such time as the Federal Court allows. However, Ms. Kennedy confirmed that the City of Philadelphia will take any and all necessary steps to abate the property until the completion of the Federal Court litigation, which begins on October 1, 2012. The pending violations are failure to maintain the exterior chimney/tower; failure to repair the roof; and failing to have a proper vacant property license (235100). In addition, the property owner has three violations from the Housing Code Enforcement Unit for failure to register a vacant property, in addition to violations of the “doors and windows” ordinance of the City of Philadelphia (312051 and 144610). On August 14, 2012, Thomas Conway, Deputy Managing Director, Mayor’s Office of Neighborhood Services (CLIP), advised Taylor that “L&I has a case on this property already and it is in pre-court status for being vacant.” (Failing to properly replace 80% of the open windows and doors, as well as failure to license this vacant parcel). On October 1, 2012, Robert Coyle pleaded guilty in Federal Court, with sentencing to occur on January 4, 2013. The City of Philadelphia is planning to see Coyle and Landvest properties at Sheriff’s Sale. On October 15, 2012, Maura Kennedy of L&I advised Taylor that the City is negotiating to ensure that there is a proper person/entity to be held responsible for bringing these properties into compliance with the

Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. On October 26, 2012, Taylor had the weeds removed from the rear of the property. On February 13, 2013, Maura Kennedy of L&I informed Taylor that this property is included in a group of Landvest properties that the City Law Department was negotiating a tax lien/property maintenance deal with the new ownership consortium out of the state of Florida. On February 14, 2013 and February 28, 2013, Taylor sent a status request to James Zwolak, Esquire, of the City of Philadelphia Law Department, and is awaiting a report. However, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit sent all violations under L&I Service request 312051 to Court. The matter is in "Pre-Court" processing. On July 10, 2013, the neighbor at 2632 East Thompson Street complained of a water leaking into her home from the subject parcel. Taylor notified Debra McCarty and Joanne Dahme of the Philadelphia Water Department, as well as Commissioner Carlton Williams of L&I to demand that this property be cleaned and sealed (Ticket No. 3009752). Finally, James Zwolak, Esquire confirmed that he would file the appropriate pleadings during the week of July 15, 2013, to compel a real estate tax sale of this parcel. On July 17, 2013, an L&I inspector appeared at the property and indicated that he would issue new violations for the defective roof. The inspector could not gain access to the interior of the property. However, Stephen Gallagher of L&I informed Taylor on July 18, 2013, that he issued an unsafe case violation for the roof and an unsafe vacant/open property. As the owner is incarcerated in Federal Prison, Taylor asked L&I Commissioner Carlton Williams to expedite this matter as the owner cannot remediate the blighted conditions due to his prison sentence. However, on July 17, 2013, the City Law department filed a Petition for a Tax Sale of this parcel. On July 17, 2013, The Contractual Services Unit issued violations for the property having a deteriorating main roof, as well as for being unsafe (L&I Case No. 392105). These violations are still listed as "not complied." The United States Attorney indicated that this property would not be subject to forfeiture, so Scioli Turco is investigating the filing of a Petition for Conservatorship under Act 135. On September 5, 2013, Scioli Turco inspected the property and agreed to immediately file a Petition for Conservatorship under Act 135. On October 23, 2013, James Zwolak, Esquire of the Philadelphia Law Department stated that said Department would not proceed to a Sheriff's sale so that Taylor can proceed with a Petition for Conservatorship under Act 135. The Petition for Conservatorship has been filed in the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County, and Taylor and is awaiting the scheduling of a Court date. Taylor, Scioli Turco and a lien holder of Landvest LLC are working together to perform rehabilitative work to the subject property, as well as damaged neighboring properties, until the Court determines Conservatorship and ownership. On June 3, 2014, Taylor was informed that the lienholder was awaiting approval from the City of Philadelphia on submitted design plans. As it was submitted for expedited review, approval is expected within ten (10) business days. Construction will resume shortly thereafter, and work should be completed within a month of starting. On July 28, 2014, Taylor contacted Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP, respectively, to abate the high weeds in the rear yard of the parcel (Ticket No. 3640356). Mr. Conway sent an inspector and a crew will return the week of July 28, 2014 to abate. On January 22, 2016, Taylor contacted new L&I Commissioner, David Perri, for urgent assistance due to the collapse of the roof. On July 21, 2016, Scioli Turco entered into a Stipulation with the current property owner, GNE Properties II, stating that the owner would make significant external repairs to the dwelling within ninety (90) days, and interior work within 180 days. If the owner does not make the agreed repairs, we will bring them back to Court for enforcement. The owner also stipulated that the property was blighted at the time of filing, which will streamline the future appointment of a conservator, if necessary.

2834 Agate Street: This vacant property reported to Taylor by Maryann Trombetta of the Port Richmond Town Watch on February 15, 2012. Specifically, a tree was growing into the property and the back wall had been pulled away from the structure. Marc Collazzo went to the property on February 16, 2012, took photographs of the existing conditions, and forwarded a complaint to Fran Burns, Commissioner of Licenses and Inspections. On February 17, 2012, Commissioner Burns informed Marc Collazzo that City was taking bids for demolition. Demolition of the property has been completed!

4562-64 Milnor Street: Ticket Nos. 2140228, 317945 and 2258096. On May 19, 2007, Taylor, along with Representatives of the Department of Licenses and Inspections were called to this premises due to the foul odor and infestation with “giant rats”. The property owner was removed by City officials and taken for mental health evaluations. City workers, dressed in hazmat suits, went into the property and left a high amount of rat poison. The plan was for the worker to return, clean out the premises, remove the dead vermin, and seal the property. However, the latter did not occur. Therefore, on February 29, 2012, Taylor notified the Department of Licenses and Inspections of the continued problems with this parcel and, as a result, an Inspector issued new violations on March 1, 2012 and a re-inspection is scheduled for April 19, 2012. As the owner is now in the care of her daughter and son-in-law, Taylor forwarded correspondence to the owner/guardian to correct these issues, as well as notified the City of Philadelphia of the current address of the owner/guardian. Taylor has not heard a response from the owner or guardian. On May 3, 2012, Taylor sent a request for a status update to Inspector Lustick of the Department of Licenses and Inspections and is awaiting a reply. On May 8, 2012, L&I informed Marc Collazzo that CLIP abated the property on April 27, 2012. Also, Marc Collazzo inspected these parcels on May 8, 2012, and photographed several new issues, including, but not limited to, the removal of a side window, a broken board covering a basement window, the crumbling front steps, and a large tree beginning to encroach upon the side, upper structure of the residence. Collazzo immediately forwarded the photographs and new complaints to the Department of Licenses and Inspections. On June 7, 2012, Taylor contacted L&I and was informed that the case is still open and awaiting a third inspection. On June 12, 2012, members of the family of the property owner reached out to Taylor and commenced discussions on how to resolve the current problems associated with the instant parcel. On July 3, 2012, the property owner spoke to Taylor and expressed a desire to bring the property up to code. On July 19, 2012, Taylor spoke with the property owner’s legal guardian, Gero Yerka, who confirmed that he would contact Inspector Lustick to determine the violations against this parcel so that he could bring the property up to Code. Taylor also contacted L&I and, due to the attention given by the family of the property owner, the residence passed the final inspection on July 16, 2012. On July 26, 2012, Gero Yerka, contacted Taylor to confirm that he contacted Inspector Lustick, and would be coming to Philadelphia to inspect and repair the subject property. On July 31, 2012, Marc Collazzo spoke to Mr. Gerka, who confirmed that he will meet Taylor at the subject property on August 13, 2012, to inspect and see what actions are necessary to bring the property back into productive use. On August 13, 2012, Collazzo met with Mr. Gerka and inspected both the interior and exterior of the property. Mr. Gerka will be performing renovations to bring the parcel up to code, including, but not limited to, the removal of two (2) large trees growing on and into the parcel. Taylor will provide any assistance to help Mr. Gerka complete this work. On September 12, 2012, Thomas Conway of CLIP confirmed that his department has outstanding fines attached to this property in the amount $7,922.37. It is important to note that the Community Life Improvement Unit twice cleaned and sealed the parcel for high weeds on or about April 2, 2012 and June 21, 2012, respectively (L&I Service Nos. 321913 and 334625). The Housing Code Enforcement Unit still has “not complied” violations for a vacant property (L&I Service No. 317945), as well as for the accumulation of combustible waste; failure to clean/exterminate the side and rear yards; failure to eliminate rodent burrows in the side and rear yards; having an unfit property and failing to clean/maintain the interior of the property (L&I Service No. 110546). On November 21, 2012, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation, as well as for having to cut high weeds throughout the property (L&I Service No. 360521). On November 15, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations for “vacant property standard”, failing to secure a vacant property, failing to have a vacant property license, and for failing to replace the front door and six (6) windows (L&I Case nos. 411032 and 411033), respectively. The violations under 411032 are listed as complied as of December 24, 2013. The violations under 411033 are still open, and were sent to Court. On January 7, 2014, Taylor decided to pursue the filing of a Conservatorship Action under Act 135 with the Bridesburg CDC, and ordered a title report of the parcel. The property has been cleaned and sealed by the City of Philadelphia. Taylor, along with the Bridesburg Community Development Corporation and Scioli Turco, filed a Petition to Appoint a Conservator under Act 135. On July 10, 2014, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations for failing to have a license for a vacant residential building, as well as for failing to repair the exterior front of the parcel, and for having a hazardous electrical system (L&I Case No. 441803). Case No. 411033 was brought into compliance on or about June 6, 2014. All remaining violations were sent to Court on September 2, 2014. On July 23, 2015, Taylor contacted Richard Quigley of L&I to request that doors and windows on the lower level be secured, as well as to remove a tree that had fallen on the property. On August 4, 2015, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation, as well as for failing to cut high weeds and overhanging trees encroaching on neighbors properties. (L&I Case No. 495764). On December 14, 2015, the Contractual Services Unit issued violations for an unsafe exterior structure (L&I Case No. 514036). On April 11, 2016, the CLIP violations under case no. 495764 were brought into compliance. On November 7, 2016, Joel Palmer of Scioli Turco confirmed a cash purchase of the subject property from the property owner. The date of settlement is December 8, 2016, and the buyer is a developer who will rehabilitate this two-lot parcel. City liens on the property will be paid in full. On December 7, 2016, the Scioli Turco advised Taylor that rehabilitation, with valid work permits, will begin within thirty (30) days.

3258 Cedar Street: Ticket No. 2193610, 2393784 and 2506771. This occupied property was reported to be covered in trash and debris on the front porch and backyard. Animal control had been called to remove several dogs. Moreover, the owners ran a hose for their washer out of the front window. Inspector Grace of the Department of Licenses and Inspections performed three (3) inspections, the last of which was on March 6, 2012. The owner passed inspection, but the adjacent property owner indicated that the problems remained. Taylor spoke with Inspector Grace, who stated that he would gladly re-inspect and to re-submit a Philly 311 complaint if the problems persisted. Taylor resubmitted a new complaint for action to Philly 311 on March 28, 2012. Inspector Grace spoke to the owner on or about April 5, 2012, and, as a result, the owner cleaned up the trash and removed the hose from her front window. However, on July 19, 2012, neighbors complained to Taylor about excessive refuse left on the exterior of the property, which caused an infestation of maggots. Taylor immediately forwarded a complaint to Philly 311 to request immediate service (2393784). The new investigation is pending. On July 24, 2012, a neighbor informed Taylor that the current occupant was moving out as the owner is selling the property. Taylor will make sure that the parcel is in compliance with the Property Maintenance Code. The current investigation, under ticket no. 2393784, is still pending and L&I issued new violations on or about July 23, 2012 for exterior rubbish/garbage, as well as interior trash (L&I Case No. 340289). On August 22, 2012, neighbors informed Taylor that as a result of his intervention, the “knee-high” weeds were cut. However, neighbors later complained that weeds are continuing to grow again, including along the street/curb of the property. The front porch is covered with trash and debris, including, but not limited to, chairs and car mats. The back yard has weeds “growing wild”, plus refuse left in the alley that covers the drain and causes flooding to adjacent properties. Finally, the drain spout on the porch roof is blocked, causing water to stream onto the neighbor’s front porch. Accordingly, on September 17, 2012, Taylor contacted Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP to obtain their assistance. Accordingly, on September 19, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that it opened a new service request for this property (2506771). On October 12, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations for having refuse/rubbish, as well as overgrown weeds/plants, in the front and rear of the property, with trash covering the rear yard porch (L&I Service No. 355240). However, on October 16, 2012, neighbors advised Taylor that the garden was “de-weeded”, the trash was cleared and the rear yard was cleaned. On November 16, 2012, an investor, Philip Menaged, P.O. Box 3781, Philadelphia, PA 19125, purchased the subject property for $30,000.00. The current real estate taxes of $1,034.94 are still owed. However, the new owner cleaned out the property and removed the trash. All L&I violations are now listed as “complied”.

3215 Memphis Street: Ticket Nos. 2134726 and 2420177. The property had been vacant for over 10 years. The structure falling apart and the wood rotted. As a result of this complaint, property brought up to code. On August 2, 2012, after hearing additional complaints by neighbors, Taylor forwarded a new request for service as a large tree in the rear yard grew into the structure and through the roof. In addition, the back yard is covered in refuse and debris, and an air-conditioning unit in the window of the side wall is about to fall from the window. L&I confirmed the new service request at ticket no. 2420177, and would inspect the property within thirty (30) days. As of August 14, 2012,

L&I has several “not complied” violations against this parcel, including failing to register a vacant property, overgrown weeds and plants and exterior roof repair (L&I Service No. 344102). On September 7, 2012, Taylor sent a request for emergency assistance to Michael Maenner of L&I as an overgrown tree in the rear of the parcel compromised the integrity of adjacent homes, as well as power wires that hang above them. L&I informed Taylor that the site was inspected on August 14, 2012, and four (4) violations were written. The next inspection was scheduled for September 18, 2012. The property failed said inspection, and the third and final inspection is scheduled for October of 2012. As of October 18, 2012, the violations were still open. On October 22, 2012, L&I confirmed that “the date scheduled is 10/22/2012, could be after this date.” On October 22, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement sent this property to Court for failing to have a license for a vacant residential property, failing to clean weeds/plants in the rear of the property, failing to repair the rear roof, and failing to maintain a vacant property. As of February 27, 2014, the matter is in “Pre-Court” processing. It is important to note that Taylor arranged to have an overgrown tree trimmed that was hanging over an adjacent parcel. On January 31, 2014, District North issued a violation for having an unsecured vacant building (L&I Case No. 417922). On July 3, 2014, Taylor sent a request to L&I to secure the front and rear doors as they were open and subject to ingress/egress. On July 9, 2014, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued a violation for failing to secure a vacant property (L&I Case No. 443302). On October 30, 2014, Taylor contacted Scott Mulderig of L&I to determine if the parcel could be placed on the demolition list. On March 18, 2015, Joel Palmer of Scioli Turco confirmed that it will be filing a Petition for Conservatorship with the Common Pleas of Philadelphia County. On September 21, 2015, Scioli Turco presented their Petition for Conservatorship before the Honorable Arnold New of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County. Judge New granted the petition. On December 30, 2015, Scioli Turco confirmed that it obtained a buyer for the renovated real property.

2995 Gaul Street: Ticket No. 2148218. The house has been vacant and long ignored by the owner. On March 9, 2012, the Department of Licenses and Inspections issued violations against the owner. The owner has failed to remedy the existing violations, despite a compliance date of April 27, 2012. On May 15, 2012, Taylor was informed that Inspector Grace issued new violations with a final compliance date of June 4, 2012. On June 7, 2012, Collazzo inspected the premises with neighbors and it appeared that the owner(s) did no renovations to bring the parcel up to Code. On June 14, 2012, Inspector Grace informed Taylor that the property owner will be brought to Court. As of November 30, 2012, the matter is in Pre-Court status, while awaiting a date in Municipal Court. On July 12, 2012, December 28, 2012 and February 15, 2013, L&I informed Taylor that the matter is still in “processing” for Municipal Court for vacant property violations (318904), as well as for open CLIP violations for high weeds and rubbish on the exterior of the property (329173). In addition, the Community Life Improvement Unit has “not complied” violations for CLIP, failure to possess a renter’s license and for having 3 foot high weeds in the front of the property (348707). However, this issue was “cleaned and sealed” on November 1, 2012. All of the above violations were listed as “complied” on May 28, 2013, as a result of the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issuing violations for failing to have a license for a vacant residential building, failing to maintain/repair the exterior of the parcel, and for having a defective exterior cornice bargeboard (L&I Service No. 382975). This violation was sent to Court on November 25, 2013. On June 20, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation notice and a violation for failing to cut the high weeds (L&I Service No. 387145). On July 16, 2013, Thomas Conway of CLIP conformed that the property was sent for abatement and would be cleaned within seven (7) days. On August 5, 2013, CLIP abated the property for high weeds, grass and debris. On November 25, 2013, L&I sent case no. 382975 to Court. On January 13, 2014, Taylor responded to neighborhood complaints and contacted Animal Control due to neighborhood complaints of the premises being infested with raccoons, squirrels, possums, groundhogs and rats, which escape through a large hole in the rear of the property. The rat issue was also reported to Vector Control (215-685-9000). In addition, Taylor contacted Michael Meanner and Otis Haigler of L&I to request immediate demolition due to the large tree growing through the rear property. Case no. 382975 is pending in Court. On April 23, 2014, Taylor sent this property to Scioli Turco to file a petition to be appointed a Conservator under Act 135. On June 9, 2014, Taylor was informed that the subject property is listed for Sheriff's sale on June 17, 2014 at 10:00 a.m., at First District Plaza, 3801 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104, due to a tax judgment in the amount of $18,887.11. On July 15, 2014, neighbors informed Taylor the individuals, on behalf of the new owner, Nick's Real Estate, 1905 East Allegheny Avenue, were at the parcel and cleaning same. On or about, January 8, 2015, the new owner brought any outstanding violations into compliance.

2368 Orthodox Street: Ticket No. 2139086. A fire previously damaged the rear of this vacant property, but the owner failed to clean or secure. The parcel was exposed for trespass, and, as a result, the Department of Licenses and Inspections issued violations on March 2, 2012. In addition, the City sealed the property on that date. However, on March 21, 2012, vandals set fire to the subject premises, causing damage to that property, as well as 2364 and 2370 Orthodox Street, respectively. Taylor contacted the City of Philadelphia, who indicated that L&I would go back out to the area after the Fire Marshall releases same. On May 8, 2012, Marc Collazzo spoke with Inspector Curran, who stated that the owner has not responded to requests by the City of Philadelphia, so the matter will be referred to Court to obtain an order for demolition. On June 7, 2012, Taylor contacted Inspector Curran and was informed that the next scheduled inspection for the collapsed rear is June 25, 2012. On June 22, 2012, Inspector Curran informed Taylor that the City will be moving for demolition by the end of the year. Demolition is required as the property has been classified as "imminently dangerous" by the City of Philadelphia, due to "not complied" violations due to fire damaged floor and walls, a wall collapse, a partial collapse of the roof and an unsafe/unsecured vacant property. (L&I Service No. 247770). The Contractual Services Unit also has imminently dangerous violations for fire damage to the floor and ceiling (L&I Service No. 320473), which are still open.. In addition, the Community Life Improvement Unit sent this property to Court for a CLIP violation notice, as well as for high weeds, garbage/rubbish throughout the exterior of the property and failing to keep a vacant property clean (L&I Service No. 244806). On April 23, 2013, the owner, by way of Court intervention, brought all violations into compliance. However, on January 14, 2013, Taylor again contacted L&I as the debris from the fire damaged property began to fall from the structure to the sidewalk below. Since the property was designated “imminently dangerous”, Taylor requested demolition. On January 15, 2014, Inspector Mark Soltys (215-685-2588) advised that this parcel was recommended for demolition on September 27, 2013, and is awaiting the scheduling of same.

2619-21 East Allegheny Avenue: Ticket Nos. 2127724 and 328240. The property, with the expansive rear lot, is filled with trash. The windows and doors are boarded, but neighbors have reported that the wife of the deceased owner has been going back into the property. On March 27, 2012, Inspector Grace of the Department of Licenses and Inspections issued violations against this parcel, including for refuse. Taylor and Marc Collazzo went to the property on April 23, 2012, and took photographs of the wife going into the yard and actually adding to the large accumulation of trash. In addition, MyFoxPhilly ran a story about this situation. As a result, Inspector Grace is scheduled to now return for a re-inspection. Taylor investigating this parcel for a possible Conservatorship action. Moreover, on April 27, 2012, Taylor contacted L&I Commissioner, Fran Burns, to alert her to this alarming situation, and Commissioner Burns stated that she “is on it!” and would make sure that her staff immediately attends to this problem. Inspector Grace re-inspected the property and issued three (3) violations. On June 7, 2012, Taylor contacted Indira Scott of L&I, Chief of Staff for the L&I Commissioner, and was informed the next inspection is scheduled for June 19, 2012. On June 21, 2012, Taylor contacted L&I and was informed the matter was referred to Court on June 19, 2012. The matter is now in Pre-Court status and is awaiting a date in Municipal Court. On August 2, 2012, and again on September 14, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that the matter is still in “processing” for Municipal Court for the immediate violation for rubbish in the exterior garage (275169), as well as for already existing violations against the owner for failure to maintain the parcel, failure to maintain the doors and replace defective windows, requiring insect extermination and failing to clean the parcel (L&I Service Nos. 165632, 321054, 328240, 295852, and 191813). As of May 30, 2013, this matter is still in “Pre-Court” processing. However, on October 25, 2012, L&I received authorization and appeared at the location to remove the refuse/garbage in the rear yard and clean the premises. Moreover, on November 25, 2012, the Community Life Improvement Unit cleaned and sealed the rear garages (L&I Service No. 275169). From February 25, 2013 through February 28, 2013, L&I cleaned out the refuse and debris from inside the premises. It is important to note that the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations against this property on March 13, 2013 for “vacant property standard”, as well as for failing to replace 80% of defective doors and windows (L&I Service No. 372493). These violations are still listed as “not complied”.

4742 Salmon Street: This property has been vacant since 1998, with the owner owing $25,687.68 in delinquent real estate taxes. The Department of Licenses and Inspections previously cleaned and sealed the premises. Taylor spoke with George Baker, Esquire, of the GRB Law Firm, who is responsible for collecting back taxes for the City of Philadelphia. Mr. Baker stated that his firm would be bringing a civil action to compel a Sheriff’s Sale and, on March 28, 2012, Mr. Baker filed the pleading to compel the sale. The Court issued an April 3, 2012 Order, which was placed on the front door, indicating that anyone who opposed a Sheriff's Sale had twenty (20) days to respond. No one filed a response with the Court and, as a result, the property will be sold at Sheriff's Sale. The Contractual Services Unit still has an open violation for a "wall/loose/missing bricks" in the rear of the property (L&I Service 268839). In addition, on November 21, 2012, the Contractual Services Unit issued violations for having an unsafe vacant property, having loose bricks in the rear wall and having a "fractured" rear wall (L&I Service No. 360434). Finally, on November 21, 2012, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued violations for CLIP and high weeds (L&I Service No. 360508), which was resolved on December 28, 2012. The remaining violations are still listed as "not complied", and, as a result, were sent to Court on or about September 9, 2013. However, the violations were brought into compliance on or about December 20, 2013.

4430 Leiper Street: Ticket No. 2162127. Request for a clean-up of a vacant lot. The City of Philadelphia completed this request.

1207-13 Arrott Street: Ticket Nos. 2167757, 3039017, 3583368 and 3657464. Taylor reported this vacant apartment building to Philly 311 on March 15, 2012. The structure was compromised, several windows were smashed, trash and debris were strewn about the front and back and vermin had infested the premises. An inspector from Licenses and Inspections issued initial violations on or about March 23, 2012 and a compliance date of May 11, 2012 was given. On May 17, 2012, Collazzo spoke with Inspector Thomas of L&I, who confirmed that the lower level had been sealed. However, the Clean and Seal Unit will keep the case open to monitor the situation. On July 11, 2012, as a result of a resident complaint about a dead tree in danger of collapse, Taylor immediately forwarded a request to the Fairmount Park Commission, as well as to CLIP, for removal or remediation. L&I still has open violations against the owner for a vacant property infraction (320817), and sent the property to Court for failing to register a vacant property (184544). On July 30, 2013, Taylor and Police Officer Michael Wheeler forwarded requests to Philly 311 to clean and seal the property as it has been compromised by vandals (Ticket No. 3039017). On August 23, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation notice, as well as for failing to remove the trash on the side of the property and cutting the high weeds throughout the parcel (L&I Case No. 399190). In addition, on August 23, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations for failing to have a vacant property license, "vacant property standard", and for failing to replace defective doors and windows (L&I Case No. 399114). Case no. 399190 was brought into compliance on January 10, 2014. Taylor has sent this property to Scioli Turco for the filing of a Conservatorship petition under Act 135. On March 27, 2014, Taylor contacted Thomas Conway of CLIP as the owner the real properties located at 1205 and 1217 Arrott Street had been dumping trash on the subject parcel. Mr. Conway stated that CLIP would remove the trash on April 3, 2014, and said trash was removed on that date. On May 5, 2014, Taylor again called L&I and CLIP to remove garbage, debris and four (4) mattresses left on the side and front of the property. On or about May 3, 2014, L&I sent all open violations to Court. On June 13, 2014, Taylor forwarded requests for assistance to Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP due to the dumping/accumulation of refuse, tires and mattresses on the front, sides and rear of the property (Ticket No. 3583368). The property was abated on July 13, 2014. On August 1, 2014, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP Violation Notice, as well as violations for unsecured glass windows and for failure to replace/replace the front door (L&I Case No. 446004). Due to two (2) fires occurring at this parcel, the most recent of which was on December 7, 2014, Scott Mulderig of L&I informed Taylor that this damaged real property will be put up for bid for demolition. On or about December 15, 2014, L&I demolished the subject property. CLIP abated the lot on July 30, 2015.

2652-54 East Birch Street: These vacant homes are owned by the same owners. Both premises are in disrepair, with all wood rotted, windows smashed, and the board that covered 2654 had a 3-5 inch opening at the top. In fact, the owner(s) ripped down previous violation notices. On April 30, 2012, the owner of the parcels contacted Taylor to indicate that he will make the required repairs, including the installation of new front windows. The matter has still been referred for Court and will be placed on the June or July hearing list. On June 22, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that Court processing was now complete, and the Department is waiting for final approval from the Municipal Court judge to enter the properties for the purposes of Clean and Seal. On July 26, 2012, Taylor contacted L&I, who confirmed that L&I obtained Court approval to enter the premises on June 22, 2012, and the inspector found the property in compliance on June 29, 2012 (no rear access). The owner received violations from L&I for failure to have a vacant property license and failing to replace faulty windows (310392); the property was in need of structural repair, and expiration of work permit (100958); and a vacant property citation (53723). All violations are now listed as “complied”.

1013 Orthodox Street: Ticket Nos. 2166982 and 2506958. Vacant lot behind Northwood Academy Charter School that was filled with trash and debris. A danger to the students. The City will clean up this parcel within ninety (90) days from the date of the complaint (March 15, 2012). On March 30, 2012, Inspector Brinkley made an “unfounded” decision. Taylor spoke with the inspector, who stated that there was not enough trash or overgrown weeds to justify a crew going to the location. However, he assured Taylor that he would re-inspect should the condition worsen as the weather improves. As of August 9, 2012, Taylor had not received any new complaints regarding this lot. On September 18, 2012, Taylor sent an updated request for service to Philly 311 and Streets’ Commissioner, Clarena Tolson, to repair the holes and depressions along 1100 Orthodox Street. On October 2, 2012, the Streets Department informed Taylor that the subject work was completed.

Knights of Pythias, Greenwood Cemetery, 930 Adams Avenue: Ticket Nos. 2168654 and 2940095. Cancer Center of America controls this property and it failed to complete lot clean-up, which affected the homes on 4600 Castor Avenue. Taylor contacted Philly 311, the Director of Greenwood Cemetery and the Cancer Center, respectively, to alert them of the neighborhood concerns. On March 19, 2012, the City of Philadelphia referred this problem to its Exterior Maintenance Department due to noncompliance. Re-inspection is scheduled for April 30, 2012. However, as a result of Taylor’s actions, the Directors of the Cemetery organized a community clean-up of the grounds on April 14, 2012. The City set a new compliance date for May 28, 2012. On June 8, 2012, Taylor was informed that this parcel passed inspection on May 30, 2012. However, on July 12, 2012, a representative from Greenwood Cemetery contacted Collazzo due to L&I placing a cease-work order on the premises regarding repair work being done on the graves and headstones. The property is listed with the Historical Commission of Philadelphia. Collazzo, after conferring with Dr. Jon Farnham of the Historical Commission, informed the Greenwood Cemetery property manager that since this property is designated as a historical landmark, the cemetery must obtain a permit from the City of Philadelphia to perform any repair or renovation work on the parcel. On April 27, 2013, the Cemetery owners organized a community clean-up for the instant parcel. On June 4, 2013, neighbors complained that debris still remained and that vermin had infested the area. Taylor immediately forwarded requests for assistance to Philly 311 and Vector Rodent Control (215-685-9000). The new 311 ticket number is 2940095, and on June 7, 2013, the Code enforcement Unit (C&I Fire), issued new violations for failure to clean/exterminate the area, as well as “combustible remove grass/weeds and failing to respond to a C&I message (L&I Service No. 384380). On July 19, 2013, L&I confirmed that the violations are listed at “complied”.

4326 Potter Street: Ticket No. 2179401. This property is an example of both blight and “bad neighbor.” The front windows of the property are broken, and trash covers the parcel, including a mattress in the backyard. In addition, there are often 15-20 people going into and out of the property at all hours. On March 21, 2012, Taylor contacted Philly 311 and the 24th Police District, respectively. On March 23, 2012, the City of Philadelphia confirmed that this property is subject to an “open case” and violations had been issued. On October 9, 2012, the owner(s) removed the rubbish/garbage from the front lawn and patio, as well as the rear of the parcel. In addition, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit found that the weeds/plants were removed from the front of the property (L&I Service No. 344015). There are, however, “not complied” violations from CLIP, garbage and high weeds in the rear of the parcel, and having two (2) unregistered vehicles in the rear of the parcel (L&I Service No. 246505). On October 8, 2013, the Housing Code enforcement Unit issued a violation against the owner for failing to clean weeds/plants in the rear of the property (L&I Case. No. 406360). The owner brought this violation into compliance on November 13, 2013.

2538 East Westmoreland Street: Ticket No. 2186281. This is another example of both blight and a “bad neighbor”. Specifically, the owner of a residential property was renting units of this property despite allegedly not having a license to do so. Moreover, Taylor received reports of illegal drug activity at this premises and, as result, registered complaints with both Philly 311 and the 24th Police District, respectively. On April 17, 2012, the owner contacted Taylor to indicate that tenant of one of the lower units has moved out, and he has initiated eviction proceedings against the tenants of the other two (2) units in Philadelphia County. Taylor will continue to monitor the situation. However, no new complaints have been forwarded to Taylor. The owner’s housing inspection license, number 522761, is valid and will not expire until the last day of February, 2014. It is in the name of Robert Zagorski, 3168 Aramingo Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19134.

3019 Weikel Street: Several neighbors complained about the conduct exhibit by a public housing tenant, her minor children, as well as a large group of aggressive teens who congregate at the premises at all hours of the night. Moreover, those causing the constant disturbances at this property grew violent when asked by local residents to cease this behavior. As a result, Taylor contacted the 24th Police District, as well as the Philadelphia Housing Authority Police, respectively. After a thorough investigation by Housing Officer Cooke, the Philadelphia Housing Authority is pursuing further action against the tenant for violation of her lease and to compel her eviction. PHA has advised Taylor that said tenant is being evicted for violation of the terms and conditions of her lease. On July 2, 2012, the problem tenant moved from the property.

3307 Livingston Street: Ticket No. 2200289. On April 4, 2012, Taylor made a complaint to the Department of Licenses and Inspections, as well as the 24th Police District, in regard to this longstanding vacant property. Specifically, the property was covered in graffiti, and the backyard was full of debris and broken, concrete blocks. The rear and front windows were not properly secured. Moreover, the exterior of the property, in both the front and rear, was starting to chip and fall away from the structure. Since there was no fencing around the property, this parcel became a “hang out” for local teens. In addition, Taylor sent the owner(s) correspondence to demand that the aforementioned conditions be timely remedied. The City took prompt action and on April 5, 2012, L&I issued several violations of the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code against the owner(s). As a result of Taylor’s intervention, the owners have made repairs to the premises, as well as placed this parcel up for sale. In addition, on May 10, 2012, L&I confirmed that the property owner(s) brought this parcel into compliance with the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. L&I had “not complied” violations against this parcel for having a vacant property and failing to register a vacant property (L&I Services No. 247470). However, on or about April 26, 2013, the owner brought all open violations into compliance. The owner renewed vacant property license, number 525161, which does not expire until last day of February, 2014. The contact information for said license is James Shaskas, III, 1965 Colonial Drive, Croydon, PA 19021. As this property still remains a focal point for the congregation of unruly teens, Taylor again reported this matter to the 24th Police District. Officer Tina Willis confirmed that she would personally investigate the property. It must be noted that owner was denied a zoning permit for the erection of a two story rear addition and second story front addition to an existing detached single family dwelling. The size and location as shown on submitted plan. The matter had been scheduled for August 13, 2013, but was continued without a new hearing date. On October 3, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violations notice, as well as a violation for failing to cut high weeds (L&I Case No. 405493). This violation was brought into compliance on October 23, 2013. On October 23, 2013, the Zoning Board of Appeals approved permit no. 475357 for the erection of a two-story rear addition and a second story front addition to an existing detached single family dwelling.

3173 Tulip Street: On April 3, 2012, Taylor reported the instant property to the Department of Licenses and Inspections since the parcel, which was owned by Wells Fargo Bank, had broken windows and open front and rear doors. As a result, the premises became a breeding ground for vermin. The Department advised Taylor on April 4, 2012, that it re-opened their case for this property and “cleaned and sealed” the property. As of January 9, 2014, L&I had open violations against this parcel for a vacant property and failing to register a vacant property as the first floor rear of the property was open (L&I Service No. 290324).

4830 Rutland Street: Ticket No. 2211627. This is a vacant, commercial garage, which was previously decimated by fire. It is owned by Michael J. Bednarek, 2600 Orthodox Street, Philadelphia, PA 19137. Specifically, the exterior side walls were destroyed, as well as a significant portion of the rear wall. The front of the garage was still standing, but the boards placed to cover it were cracked, broken and falling away. The garage, which is adjacent to a playground, posed a significant danger to the community. Accordingly, on April 12, 2012, Taylor made a complaint to the City of Philadelphia, as well as forwarded correspondence to the owner of the property to instruct him to remedy this dangerous situation. On April 12, 2012, an inspector visited the premises and issued violations against the owner. On April 30, 2012, Taylor discovered that the parcel was sold at Sheriff’s Sale on April 26, 2012, by Schaq, LLC, and promptly notified Inspector Raudenbush of the City of Philadelphia. As a result of the new property ownership, Inspector Raudenbush issued new violations on May 1, 2012, with a compliance/re-inspection date of June 18, 2012. Taylor is moving for immediate demolition due to the parcel’s structural danger. On June 21, 2012, Taylor contacted L&I and is awaiting a status report. On June 26, 2012, Inspector Raudenbush confirmed that he would return for a final inspection the week of June 26. In addition, Taylor left a voicemail with Inspector Michael Curran (215-686-2480) of the Emergency Services Unit to determine what actions are being taken to abate the property. On June 28, 2012, Inspector Curran informed Taylor that as of June 25, 2012, the new property owner had not responded to the existing violations. Accordingly, the property will be brought to Court with a request for demolition. As of August 15, 2012, the instant property is on the City’s list for demolition due to outstanding violations for a partially collapsed wall, fire damage, failing to secure an unsafe vacant building, and a roof collapse (233538). In addition, on August 8, 2012, the C&I Fire Unit sent this parcel to Court for failing to have a proper vacant property license, as well as causing the City to clean/exterminate the exterior of the parcel (326314). The matter is “Pre-Court” processing. Taylor has also sent this parcel to Scioli Turco for the filing of a Conservatorship action under Act 135.

Orthodox Street Repair: Ticket No. 2211382, 2506958 and 3011953. Due to continued problems with sink holes, depressions and pot holes on Orthodox Street (from Castor Avenue down to Richmond Street), on April 10, 2012, Taylor contacted the Philadelphia Department of Streets’ Commissioner, Clarena Tolson, as well as Philly 311, to demand immediate repairs. To buttress community concerns, Taylor provided the City of Philadelphia with several photographs, including, but not limited to, large sink holes at the intersections of Orthodox Street and Adams Avenue, as well as Orthodox Street and Worth Street, respectively. On April 12, 2012, the Streets Department confirmed that inspectors are studying the subject street to determine repairs. On May 3, 2012, the Streets Department advised that the repair was made on April 30, 2012. Amy Hollister of the Northwood Academy Charter School, informed Taylor that the City repaired the large sink hole and Orthodox Street and Castor Avenue. On September 18, 2012, Taylor observed large depressions and sink-holes on the 1100 block of Orthodox Street. Accordingly, Taylor forwarded a request for service to Street's Commissioner, Clarena Tolson, as well as Philly 311, for this area. Accordingly, on September 19, 2012, Philly 311 confirmed that it sent a service request to the Streets Department (2506958). The Streets Department will request the Water Department to perform tests on the causes of the cave-ins before attempting to repair the street. Permanent repair is expected to be completed within 45 business days, pending possible utility repair issues. In fact, on October 2, 2012, the Streets Department informed Taylor that the requested repairs were completed. On July 12, 2013, Taylor sent a repair request to Philly 311 and the Streets Department for large pot holes and sink holes from the 800 block of Orthodox Street to the 2200 block of Orthodox Street. The matter was referred to the Streets Department under ticket no. 3011953, and repairs are being made. As of January 8, 2015, the Philadelphia Water Department (PWD) was making repairs to the main water line under Orthodox Street, extending from Northwood to Bridesburg. Upon completion of the repairs, the Philadelphia Streets Department will repave the road.

2135 East Sergeant Street: The owner of this property passed away in 2008 and the decay from neglect damaged the attached home at 2137 East Sergeant Street. As a result, Taylor initiated legal proceedings with the Philadelphia Register of Wills to appoint a "fit person" as Executor in order to sell the property to a local family. The Register of Wills granted Letters of Administration on April 5, 2012 and, April 30, 2012, Michael and Laura Tepper became the proud owners of this longstanding object of blight and are beginning making repairs and cleaning up the interior of the premises. The new property owners have publicly praised Taylor for his tireless efforts to help them bring this blighted property back into productive use. In fact, Taylor's efforts were praised in articles in the Spirit, Star and Juniata News, respectively. As of January 9, 2014, the new owners have performed substantial rehabilitative work on the property.

4729-31 Richmond Street: Vacant property where the deceased owner's heir opened an Estate but has failed to maintain the property. The copper pipes have been stolen and a homeless person previously slept in the backyard. The owner's heir has ignored all of Taylor's efforts to correct the existing problems, so a Conservatorship action to be brought to bring the property up to code and subsequently sold to a family. Taylor is working with the Bridesburg Community Development Corporation to file the appropriate pleading to appoint the CDC as a Conservator under Act 135. On June 28, 2012, the Bridesburg CDC confirmed that the Court of Common Pleas accepted the Conservatorship Petition. The matter was referred to the Honorable Allen Tereshko, and the Court scheduled this matter for a September status conference. However, as a result of Taylor's intervention by way of the Conservatorship filing, the owner executed an agreement of sale to purchase the parcel on or about September 25, 2012. Specifically, the parties thereto executed an Addendum to the Agreement of Sale which stated, "It is agreed and understood that the buyer, William T. Hird, will rehabilitate the premises in a workman-like manner and as soon as possible after the September 25, 2012 closing." On October 2, 2012, the buyer had commenced rehabilitative repairs. As of January 9, 2014, substantial improvements have been made to the parcel, and it has been sold to a local family.

Nativity BVM School, 2535 East Allegheny Avenue: Ticket Nos. 3036301, 3412546, 3420088 and 3480330. On or about April 4, 2012, Representative Taylor contacted the Archdiocese of Philadelphia regarding excessive trash and debris in the Nativity BVM Schoolyard. On April 5, 2012, Kenneth Gavin, Director of Communications for the Archdiocese, contacted Taylor to confirm that Father Fedak of Nativity BVM organized a clean-up of the yard. As of June 14, 2012, the yard had been cleaned. As this parcel has been tied up in Court, it has remained vacant and subject to vandalism and break-in. As of November 5, 2012, Taylor has been working with Kenneth Gavin of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia (215-587-3747) and John Wagner (215-587-3589) from Catholic Human Services to ensure the building is safe and secure. Taylor continues to work with the Archdiocese to ensure that the property is kept clean and secure. On July 26, 2013, Taylor forwarded a constituent request for assistance to Philly 311 due to deteriorating condition of the building, doors and windows. The new investigation under ticket no. 3036301 is pending. On August 13, 2013, Taylor sent an addendum to his July 26, 2013 request for assistance due to a broken drain pipe running down the side of the building. On September 19, 2013, sent a status request to L&I as the ticket no. 3036301 is still listed as pending. On September 20, 2013, Taylor contacted Inspector Shanon Grier (215-685-0535) as to the status of the investigation of ticket no. 3036301. Taylor is waiting for a response. On October 2, 2013, Inspector Grier informed Taylor that she will make arrangements to meet with the neighbors to take a walking tour to look at the alleged violations. Inspector Grier will be touring the facility with neighbors on Thursday, October 24, 2013. However, the meeting did not occur due to failure to obtain access, so Taylor contacted the Archdiocese of Philadelphia to arrange access and a tour of the facility. On February 20, 2014, Taylor contacted L&I and the Archdiocese of Philadelphia as the roof on the Belgrade Street side of the property was starting to collapse and water was pouring from the roof to the sidewalk below. In addition, no one removed the large accumulation of snow and ice on the sidewalks around the parcel. Philly 311 assigned ticket no. 3412546. On April 3, 2014, Taylor forwarded a service request to Philly 311 as there was graffiti and broken windows at the entrance of the property. Philly 311 assigned ticket no. 3480330 to this service request. On April 15, 2014, the City of Philadelphia assigned this property to the Anti-Graffiti Unit. On June 6, 2014, Taylor contacted John Wagner of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia, who confirmed that the Archdiocese would again visit the property to reseal the property. On July 9, 2014, John Wagner informed Taylor that the garage door and all entry points were secured. In addition, the Archdiocese will engage a contractor to address any broken doors and windows, as well as to check installed lighting. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court granted the appeal by the Archdiocese to allow the Senior Housing Project to commence! The facility is now open and sits as a model of improvement in Campbell's Square.

2421 East Ann Street: Ticket No. 314020. This is a vacant property next to the clubhouse for the Port Richmond Tigers. The property is in extreme disrepair with improperly secured doors and windows. Taylor contacted the Departments of Licenses and Inspections, as well as Revenue, respectively, as the Office of Property Assessment lists the owner as Joe Eibell, while the Department of Revenue lists the owner as Anthony Tempesta. The City holds tax liens against this parcel in the amount of $14,662.32. On May 1, 2012, Weiss informed Taylor that Anthony Tempesta obtained ownership of the property by way of Court Order on September 18, 2009. Taylor located Mr. Tempesta at 460 Briarhill Road, Springfield, PA 19064, and forwarded correspondence to Mr. Tempesta to demand the property be brought into compliance with the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. This City Law Department is considering this property for a possible Sheriff's Sale due to the excessive, delinquent taxes. It is important to note that on March 22, 2012, CLIP appeared at the parcel and issued two (2) violations, which were corrected on April 10, 2012 when the Clean and Seal Unit abated the property. On June 21, 2012, July 12, 2012 and August 9, 2012, respectively, Taylor forwarded a message to James Zwolak, Esquire, of the City Law Department and is awaiting a status of the filing of the appropriate pleadings to compel a Sheriff's Sale. On April 11, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit of L&I found that the owner complied with all open violations, including the "not complied" vacant property violations against this parcel (L&I Service No. 314020), and closed all service requests.

On June 7, 2012, Taylor contacted Inspector Thomas, who stated that on June 4, 2012, the Clean and Seal Unit went to the parcel and cleaned the trash and secured the side windows (L&I Service No. 323474). However, on July 26, 2012, L&I sent this parcel to Equity Court for failing to register a vacant residential building (323477). The owner's housing inspection license, number 245793, expired on the last day of February, 2012. However, on March 22, 2013, the owner complied with all open violations and the service requests were closed.

4414 Garden Street: Neighbors complained to Taylor about a foul odor emanating from this residence. The front and side windows were not properly secured, and the side door had been compromised. Taylor took photographs and promptly contacted the Department of Licenses and Inspections in order to properly secure the house. In addition, Taylor and his staff began an investigation to locate a possible heir to the deceased owner. The Department of Licenses and Inspections stated that they would notify the applicable inspector that the situation still exists. Taylor determined that no party opened an Estate for the Decedent despite locating an existing heir, so Taylor will commence an action with the Philadelphia Register of Wills to obtain Letters of Administration to appoint a “fit person” as an Executor of Mr. Kinnear’s Estate for the purposes of selling this parcel to a local family and resolving all back taxes and utilities. On May 16, 2012, CLIP wrote violations against this parcel, and gave a compliance date of May 30, 2012. On April 20, 2012, Thomas McDade, Executive Director of Community Development for the Department of Licenses and Inspections, contacted Taylor to confirm that an inspector would visit the premises “within the week.” As a result of said inspection, The City issued violations against these properties. As a result, there was standing water in the property. On April 25, 2012, Taylor and Marc Collazzo inspected the real property, took photographs, and forwarded an immediate complaint to the Department of Licenses and Inspections. Please note that the City issued previous violations against the owner on March 16, 2012, and the property is awaiting re-inspection. Finally, on April 25, 2012, Taylor forwarded correspondence to the New York based-owner to demand immediate action. The owner failed to respond. The Department of Licenses and Inspections confirmed that re-inspection would occur on June 7, 2012. On June 8, 2012, Taylor informed L&I that bricks were becoming loose and falling from the front exterior of the premises. In addition, the side door on the Bridge Street side of this parcel is still open to ingress/egress. Taylor reported this property to L&I and said agency issued violations on April 27, 2012. The owners were given a compliance date of June 4, 2012, or face Court intervention. It is Taylor's understanding that the owner is working with L&I to correct the infractions. The City of Philadelphia placed real estate tax liens on the property in the amount of $2,259.13. On June 6, 2012, Taylor left a voicemail for Inspector Laudembush (215-685-0535), who stated that he had not yet been back out to the subject property. The Inspector will get back to Taylor with a status no later than June 19, 2012. On June 19, 2012, Taylor contacted Inspector Raudembush, as well as Philly 311, to let them know that the rear roof collapsed. Collazzo also immediately went to the location to inspect and photograph the damage. The inspector stated he would immediately go to the premises and would bring the owner to Equity Court. On June 22, 2012, Inspector Raudembush informed Taylor that he referred this property to Equity Court. In addition, Inspector Michael Curran of the Emergency Abatement Unit told Taylor that he would immediately go to the premises to inspect the collapsed rear roof to determine if the City needed to move to get an emergency order to remediate the danger. On June 28, 2012, Taylor spoke with Inspector Michael Curran, who stated that since the owner(s) are unresponsive, the property will be brought to Municipal Court. The properties are both owned by Sevenco, LLC, 90 Park Terrace, West Orange, NJ 07052, and City of Philadelphia hold real estate tax liens on both addresses in the amount of $1,620.69 and $3,893.19, respectively. Accordingly, the matter was reported to Philly 311. On June 21, 2012, Taylor sent a request to L&I and is awaiting a status report. Taylor was informed that the property (2311 East Clearfield) was inspected on May 11, 2012 and violations were issued. The second inspection, which failed, occurred on June 18, 2012. The third inspection was scheduled on or around July 23, 2012. On July 26, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that the parcel failed the July 23, 2012 re-inspection. Accordingly, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit for the City of Philadelphia sent this matter to Municipal Court for failing to have a residential SFD/2FD license, as well as a violation of a C&I message (327965). Both properties are in “Pre-Court” processing. However, all violations are now listed as complied.

2934 Aramingo Avenue: Ticket No. 283618. This vacant property was owned by Urayohan Cruz Ortiz, who purchased the premises on August 29, 2007. There are no real estate taxes owed to the City, but the parcel had a posted notice of a June 5, 2012 Sheriff’s Sale. Said sign has since been removed. The boarded up doors and windows have been broken to allow for ingress/egress and, as a result, thieves have taken the pipes from the property. In addition, the exterior of the house is crumbling, with rotting wood. Immediately after receiving a complaint about this parcel from a constituent on March 16, 2012, Taylor made a complaint to Philly 311. The investigation is pending as this was an active case with L&I Inspector Grace. On June 28, 2012, Taylor contacted L&I and, on July 2, 2012, Inspector Grace informed Taylor that the property has one (1) open case for a vacant property violation (L&I Service No. 283618), and is in the census tract of Inspector Thomas. As of January 9, 2014, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit has a “not complied” violation for failure to maintain a vacant property (L&I Service No. 283618).

3569 Sheffield Avenue: Ticket No. 2175046. Several frustrated members of the community of Mayfair reported this longstanding vacant property to Taylor for assistance. Specifically, the doors and windows had been improperly boarded. In fact, the owner painted the boards to give the appearance that there were curtains in the windows. However, side and rear windows were open for ingress/egress and, as a result, pigeons and vermin infested the parcel. The exterior brick-work was chipping and the cement of the front steps was crumbling. The owner, Jean D. Lightcap, actually resides around the corner at 3400 Ryan Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19136. The City of Philadelphia possesses real estate tax liens against the subject premises in the amount of $4,764.07. Taylor and Collazzo went to the property, took photographs and on March 27, 2012 made a complaint to Philly 311. In addition, Taylor forwarded correspondence to the property owner to request compliance, as well as to address the penalties she would face for continued inaction. This was an active case for L&I, but new violations were issued against the owner and the property was immediately re-sealed on March 27, 2012. The open windows issue was added to the L&I notes for the existing, original case no. 249248. Taylor referred Scioli Turco, a non-profit entity specializing in Conservatorship actions under Act 135, to the Mayfair Community Development Corporation (CDC) to obtain court-ordered guardianship of the property to rehabilitate the parcel and get it back into productive use. Taylor was pleased to hear that on May 15, 2012, the Mayfair CDC entered a resolution approving the filing of a Petition for Conservatorship, with a lis pendens, in the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County. On July 10, 2012, Taylor received confirmation that the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County accepted the Conservatorship Petition and the parties are scheduled to appear at a status conference with the Honorable Allen Tereshko on October 9, 2012. On October 9, 2012, the parties appeared before Judge Tereshko, with the owner having executed an agreement of sale for the property. The judge ordered that buyer and seller execute an Addendum to the agreement of sale to confirm the buyer's obligation to repair/rehabilitate the real property. All parties are to return to Court in forty-five (45) days for the buyer to document the work performed on the parcel, as well as to bring a copy of the agreement of sale. However, Taylor inspected the real property and confirmed that the new owner is making necessary repairs, including replacing all doors and windows. On February 25, 2013, Taylor reviewed photographs of the current condition of the parcel and its repairs. On or about May 8, 2013, the repairs have been completed and the property is listed for an out-sale.

2004 East Boston Street: Ticket No. 2276743. This longstanding vacant property had been previously sealed by the City of Philadelphia. However, the condition of this parcel has deteriorated to the point of posing a danger to the community. Specifically, there were holes in the front, exterior brick facade, as well as in the boarded-up front windows. In addition, the area directly above the windows on the upper level was open and now a haven for pigeons. Most urgent was the fact that the back, brick facade was crumbling. In fact, a falling brick almost struck the resident of 2002 East Boston Street. The instant property is owned by T & L Properties, Inc., 2411 Mount Carmel Avenue, Glenside, PA 19038-3506, and the City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $1,834.76. On May 18, 2012, Collazzo went to the property to inspect and take photographs. Taylor then forwarded a complaint to Philly 311, as well as sent a warning letter to the property owner. Taylor also notified Animal Control. The City issued violations against the property owner on May 29, 2012, with a compliance date of July 3, 2012. On July 12, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that the owner(s) had not complied with the violations as of July 3, 2012, so, as a result, L&I scheduled a third and final inspection for August 9, 2012. The Clean and Seal Unit abated the property on or about July 5, 2012. The Housing Code Enforcement Unit has one open case against this parcel for failing to obtain a license for a vacant, residential building (330544), which was sent to Court on August 17, 2012. On July 30, 2012, the Clean and Seal Unit abated the property for a vacant property violation, as well as failing to secure a vacant property (L&I service no. 330545). In addition, the Contractual Services Unit of L&I found several “not complied violations for partially collapsed rear wall, a partially collapsed roof, a partially collapsed floor/ceiling and for an unsafe/unsecure vacant structure (225121). The matter is in ‘Pre-Court’ processing.

3809-19 Frankford Avenue: Ticket No. 2279523. This vacant property and vacant lot(s) are owned by the City of Philadelphia and had been previously sealed. The adjoining neighbors contacted Taylor about the dilapidated condition of these parcels, which included broken wood on the second floor, front windows, falling bricks from the side chimney and rodent infestation. In addition, the weeds in the vacant lot were so overgrown that they exceeded the height of the cement barrier surrounding the lot. On May 21, 2012, Collazzo went to the property, took photographs and made complaints to both Philly 311 and the Office of Public Property, respectively. At the request of the Office of Public Property, on May 22, 2012, Taylor sent a request for a letter of support from District Councilman, Mark Squilla. On June 9, 2012, L&I reported that Taylor’s service request was completed.

3424 Hurley Street: Ticket No. 2280228. Neighbors contacted Taylor about this property, which had been vacated by the owner, Ross A. Franklin, in 2010. Although the parcel had been boarded-up, two (2) individuals broke in and have been staying there despite to active water, gas or electricity. The local residents complained of a foul odor emanating from the house, and the yard is full of debris, refuse and overgrown weeds. As a result, the premises became infested with vermin. The City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens since 2010 in the amount of $1,746.83. Taylor immediately forwarded a request for assistance to Philly 311, as well as contacted Vector to address the vermin infestation. On July 12, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that this property had an open case for failure to possess a residential SFD/2FD license (306199). In addition, L&I put in an “escalated request” to inspect the parcel for the conditions listed above under ticket no. 2280228. On September 25, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations cracks in the front exterior of the residence, failing to repair/maintain the front of the property, a vacant property violation and failure to properly replace/secure 80% of the doors and windows of the vacant property (L&I Service No. 352531). On January 2, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement closed the matter and listed the violations as “complied”.

3447 Tilton Street: Ticket Nos. 328707, 328712, 328790. On May 23, 2012, several constituents notified Taylor that this vacant property had no windows, and the doors had been repeatedly compromised, despite the best efforts by the neighbors to seal them shut. The parcel is owned by KMF Associates, LLC, 1835 Market Street, 7th Floor, Philadelphia, PA 19103. The City holds real estate liens in the amount of $3,204.50, and collection is being pursued by GRB Collection. Taylor forwarded a complaint to L&I, as well as sent the owner correspondence to demand repairs with threat of penalties under the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. L&I inspected the property on May 18, 2012, and the owner was given a compliance date of June 22, 2012. On June 28, 2012, Taylor contacted L&I and, on July 2, 2012, Inspector Grace informed Taylor that this parcel has three (3) open cases, with the owner(s) failing to comply. As of August 23, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit had open violations for failing to properly replace 80% of the doors and windows to the vacant property (328790) and failing to obtain a license for a vacant residential building (328712), which were both sent to Equity Court. Finally L&I had a “not complied” violation for having an unsecured vacant property (328707). However, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit cleaned and sealed those issues on July 27, 2012. The remaining violations are in “Pre-Court” processing. The property’s housing inspection license, number 264367, expired on the last day of February, 2013. The matter is in “Pre-Court” processing. However, on February 5, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation notice, as well as violations for having garbage on the side and rear of the parcel (L&I Service No. 368317). The property was cleaned and sealed under service number 368317 on February 23, 2013.

4152 Castor Avenue: Ticket No. 2285333. This longstanding vacant property was brought to Taylor’s attention on May 24, 2012. Specifically, the rear garage is open and full of refuse and debris. In addition, the rear exterior is chipped, cracked and crumbling. As a result, Taylor immediately forwarded a request for service to Philly 311, as well as sent correspondence to the owner, Lisa Amatucci, 9506 James Street, Unit B, Philadelphia, PA 19114, to require her attention to the aforementioned issues. On June 8, 2012, the owner, in concert with the L&I inspector, remediated the damage and brought the property into compliance with the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. However, on May 12, 2012, the owner obtained business license number 563204 for “residential res_vacant”, which expires on February 28, 2013. The contact information is BAC Escalations Department, Bank of America, 301 East Vanderbilt Way, Suite 350, San Bernardino, CA 92408. On December 12, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations for failure to clean refuse/rubbish in the rear of the property, as well as for failing to repair/replace the rear door (L&I Service No. 362968). These violations are listed as “not complied”, and on March 8, 2013, this parcel was sent to Court. However, on June 14, 2013, this matter was closed as the owner brought the property into compliance.

3296 Tilton Street: Ticket No. 2288819. On May 24, 2012, members of the Port Richmond Community Association brought this vacant property to Taylor’s attention. Specifically, the rear portion of the property that contains the kitchen was “bowing out” and falling down. The property is owned by Tim Burke, 3328 Vista Street, Philadelphia, PA 19136. On May 25, 2012, Marc Collazzo took photographs of the property and forwarded a request for assistance to Philly 311. On May 30, 2012, L&I found the property to be in compliance.

2626 East Madison Street: Ticket No. 2288860. On May 24, 2012, members of the Port Richmond Community Association brought this vacant property to Taylor’s attention. This vacant parcel was damaged by fire four (4) years ago and boarded-up. However, there were still open portions of the property that allowed for ingress/egress for both people and vermin, and several of the boards covering the windows had been broken. The parcel is owned by Francis Kudzin, and the City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens since 2010 in the amount of $1,923.72. GRB Collection is pursuing collection on behalf of the City. On May 25, 2012, Marc Collazzo took photographs of the house and forwarded a request for service to Philly 311. This matter is an existing case with L&I, and said Department issued violations on May 29, 2012. On July 12, 2012, Taylor sent a status request to L&I and Inspector Curran confirmed that there are three (3) open cases on this property: the Contractual Services Unit has “not complied” violations for fire damage to the walls (interior and front bay); an unsafe/unsecured vacant building; a fire damaged roof (main and porch); and a fire damaged floor/ceiling (L&I Service Nos. 235057/58), as well as a vacant property violation from the Housing Code Enforcement Unit (266548). On August 2, 2012, Taylor forwarded a request for a status report to Inspector Grace, who informed Taylor that he no longer serviced this location and referred Taylor to Supervisors E. Carasquillo or P. Irons (215-685-0538). On August 3, 2012, Supervisor Carasquillo confirmed that she would promptly send an inspector to the property to arrange a “clean and seal.” On August 6, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit closed the “not complied”, non-hazardous violations for having an unfit property, failure to restore utilities, main roof repair, and exterior window repair/maintenance (L&I Service No. 251292). The remaining violations remain open and the property has been declared “inherently dangerous”.

2206 East Martha Street: Ticket No. 2287053. This property sits at the corner of Martha and Clearfield Streets, and people have been using that corner as a “public dump”. Specifically, the subject area is filled with old tires, used syringes and condoms, and has become a haven for misbehaved youth. On May 25, 2012, Taylor, upon hearing about these deplorable conditions, filed a request for service with Philly 311 to request an immediate clean-up. On May 29, 2012, the Streets Department dispatched a clean-up crew to the location and made sure to remove any refuse and debris.

2221 East Huntingdon Street: This vacant lot is owned by Brian Santora, 124 Richmond Street, Philadelphia, PA 19125, and the City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens since 1997 in the amount of $9,088.02. The owner of the residence at 2223 East Huntingdon Street has been preserving the vacant parcel and wishes to obtain ownership of same. On May 31, 2012, Taylor forwarded correspondence to the owner to offer assistance, as well as contacted the Philadelphia Department of Revenue to discuss a tax sale. As of January 18, 2013, the owner has not replied to Taylor. The City Law Department is preparing this matter to file for approval to sell this parcel at Sheriff’s Sale within the next sixty (60) days. On January 18, 2013, Collazzo spoke with Rosario Grifo, Esquire of the Lineberger Firm, who stated that the Court stayed the sale of the parcel as the Redevelopment Authority was looking into a condemnation of the property in order to gain possession. However, said condemnation fell through, on March 19, 2013, so Mr. Grifo confirmed that he would re-file the petition for Sheriff’s Sale. The new pleading had been filed in May of 2013, with the sale to occur within sixty (60) to ninety (90) days. On October 31, 2013, Roasrio Grifo stated that the property is scheduled to be set for the February 28, 2014 Sheriff’s Sale.

3835 I Street: The neighbors brought this real property to Taylor’s attention on May 31, 2012. The owner, Linda M. Smyth, died intestate on August 15, 2011. She had no heirs and the property has remained vacant since her passing. As a result, the parcel has fallen into disrepair and the City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $1,591.94. Fortunately, the family who resides at 3837 I Street, who had cared for the Decedent throughout the years, wanted to purchase the real property to have their entire family live in the neighborhood. Accordingly, on May 31, 2012, Taylor took photographs of the premises, as well as contacted the Philadelphia Register of Wills Office to confirm that no individual opened an Estate for Ms. Smyth. Taylor will file a Rule to Show Cause to appoint a local attorney and community activist as Executor in order to sell the property to the local family and return it to productive use. On October 4, 2012, the proposed Estate Administrator filed the Rule to Show Cause with the Register of Wills. The Rule to Show Cause is scheduled for November 13, 2012. Since the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provided no objection, the Rule was granted. Upon receiving the sealed Order, the appointed Executor will appear before the Register of Wills to file Petitions to Grant Letters of Administration. On or about May 8, 2013, the register of Wills appointed an Administrator for the Decedent's Estate, who is now in the process of probating the Estate for the purposes of the subject real estate's sale.

3445 Edgemont Street: This vacant property has been vacant since 2006 after the death of the owner, John P. Anderlonis. The Decedent established a trust to control this parcel, but it fell into disrepair. Specifically, the front door and windows were not properly secured, with the wood surrounding the windows now rotted and falling away from the structure. The wood on the front porch is also rotted and in danger of immediate collapse. Finally, the rear door is open to ingress/egress by people and/or vermin. The City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $8,035.42. On May 31, 2012, Taylor, after taking photographs of the existing condition of the premises, forwarded a request for service to Philly 311. In addition, Taylor met with the owner(s) of the neighboring property located at 3447 Edgemont Street, who wish to purchase the property. On May 31, 2012, Philly 311 advised Taylor that this house was an "open case" with L&I. Taylor contacted said Inspector (215-685-0580). No Executor has contacted Taylor. As of August 2, 2012, Taylor and his staff are working with local counsel to resolve the Estate situation so as to sell this property to a local property. On August 3, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that "this is an open case with the Department of License and Inspection, they are rebuilding the porch at this address." Inspector McClain (215-685-0580) is scheduled to re-inspect the property on August 23, 2012 for violations for a vacant property (293623); faulty exterior steps and failing to maintain/clean the premises (203986); improper work on the front porch (295423); and CLIP violations and high weeds (123313). On September 6, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that there is no new inspection date yet. As of January 3, 2013, the owner resolved the above-referenced violations except the standard vacant property citation (293623). An estate was opened for the Decedent owner(s), and the Estate will be selling the parcel on or about January 22, 2013. On January 22, 2013, the residents at 3447 Edgemont Streets purchased the property and will commence rehabilitative repairs. On or about February 27, 2013, Taylor put the new owners in contact with Michael Maenner of L&I in order to get instructions for obtaining the proper repair license(s) and hold enforcement of all violations issued prior to their ownership.

2133 East Sergeant Street (Vacant Lot that extends back to 2128-32 East Hazzard Street): Ticket Nos. 2297478 and 2811418. In assisting Michael and Laura Tepper obtain ownership of the vacant property located at 2135 East Sergeant Street, the Teppers notified Taylor of the condition of the vacant lot next door, which was owned by Mimi Corp LLC., 16 Gravers Lane, Philadelphia, PA 19118-3304. Specifically, the lot is overgrown with weeds, vines, trees and grass. In addition, the area has become a haven for the dumping of refuse and debris, which resulted in the infestation of vermin. Accordingly, on June 1, 2012, Taylor sent a request for assistance to Philly 311, as well as forwarded correspondence to the owner to request his help in cleaning up this parcel. The investigation is pending and clean-up to occur within ninety (90) days of the date of the complaint. On June 25, 2012, L&I issued violations against the owner(s), who now have twenty (20) days to clean up the property, or the City will do so and charge the owner(s) for same. On July 26, 2012, neighbors advised Taylor that as a result of this complaint, the owner(s) cleaned the lot and removed all debris. On or about March 19, 2013, neighbors informed Taylor that the newly installed fence was ill-constructed and “peeled away” so that local kids could enter. As a result, damage was caused to this and adjacent parcels. Taylor and the neighbor immediately called in a new service request (2811418). No new violations were found.

1918 East Hazzard Street: Ticket No. 2322345. This real property has been vacant since on or about 2001 due to the passing of the owner, Roberta Pearo. Since that time, the property has fallen into decay, with trash-bags covering the windows and refuse covering the front, side and back yards. Moreover, the rear of the structure is so dilapidated that it is beginning to crack and fall away. The City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $5,712.93. On June 14, 2012, a constituent asked Taylor for assistance, and he promptly forwarded a request for service to Philly 311. In addition, Taylor contacted James Zwolak, Esquire, of the City Law Department to determine if the premises can be brought to a tax sale. On July 9, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that it did not issue any violations against this parcel. Taylor will follow-up with local residents to determine if he needs to pursue further action. Taylor has received no new complaints about this parcel.

2669 Webb Street: Ticket No. 2330060. On June 19, 2012, a representative from the Port Richmond Town Watch reported this dilapidated property to Taylor’s attention. Specifically, Fannie Mae controlled the property since December 14, 2009 after a foreclosure action. Since that time, the basement of this parcel has “overflowed” with sewage/waste, which has run into the surrounding properties. Although the property was to remain vacant and all utilities have been shut off, squatters have moved into the premises. Neighbors, in addition to making complaints as to the physical condition of the residence, also became concerned about possible illegal drug activity occurring on the premises. Taylor promptly made a complaint to Philly 311, as well as reported the squatter concerns to the 26th Police District. As the property is controlled by Fannie Mae, Taylor contacted said entity to demand assistance. On June 28, 2012, Captain Cram of the 26th Police District advised Taylor that he would investigate the property while we are awaiting a response from Fannie Mae to obtain approval to remove squatters. On July 5, 2012, Collazzo met with L&I Inspector Stacey Jones (215-685-1510), who had been at the property on two (2) different occasions. The Inspector noticed a hose with running water from the property, despite no active water service on this property since 2010. In addition, there is a window air-conditioner, yet no active electric. Inspector Jones left her cards for the surrounding neighbors to obtain additional information, and she and Collazzo will follow up with the Philadelphia Office of Fannie Mae (215-575-1400), as well as the Fannie Mae consumer hotline (800-732-6643). Since there are children residing in this vacant parcel, Taylor and Inspector Jones are acting with all deliberate speed to ensure their safety. Taylor then contacted Fannie Mae's property management company in the area, William Collins of First Service Residential Reality (732-918-8398) to report the instant problem and is awaiting a reply. On July 6, 2012, L&I forwarded notice of violations to Fannie Mae, which included improper drainage/main drain repair, failure to restore water, and a fixture not attached to the sewer (L&I Service No. 337416). On July 18, 2012, Taylor spoke with Carlos Flowers of Fannie Mae, who stated that the people residing in the subject parcel were tenants, not squatters, and Fannie Mae was in the process of evicting said tenants. Upon their departure from the property, Fannie Mae confirmed that the company will have a team clean and seal it. On August 7, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit listed "not complied" violations for failure to repair drainage systems, failure to restore water and connect sewage lines (L&I Service No. 337416). In addition, on September 24, 2012, said Unit issued a violation for failure to obtain a license for a vacant residential property (L&I Service No. 352002). These violations are now listed as "complied" and the matters closed. However, on January 30, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations for "CAL LO", failing to have a residential license and failing to restore water to the premises (L&I Service No. 368133). In addition, on February 5, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations against the owner for failing to restore electric and water service (L&I Service No. 368142). On or about May 20, 2013, this owner brought the property into compliance and all violations were closed. However, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations on July 31, 2013 for several issues pertaining to the interior of the parcel, including deteriorating walls and ceilings (L&I Case No. 394638). The latter violations were sent to Court on or about October 10, 2013.

4608 Richmond Street: Ticket Nos. 2332379 and 2943516. This vacant property, owned by John and Kathleen Fabio, has fallen into disrepair due to years of neglect. The side and rear of the parcel is full of refuse and debris. The weeds in the yard are overgrown and, recently, the surrounding neighbors determined that the residence is infested with termites. Currently, the City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $6,925.49. On June 21, 2012, Taylor forwarded a request for service to Philly 311 and Vector Control, respectfully. Inspector Keenan contacted Taylor and issued vacant property violations. In addition, the inspector brought in CLIP to abate the outside refuse, weeds and debris. If the property failed two (2) additional inspections within the next 70 days, the matter will be sent to Court. It must that be noted that on July 9, 2012, local residents advised Taylor that they observed people removing the debris from the property. In addition, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit has an open vacant property violation against the owner(s) (L&I Service No. 334639). The inspector was out at the property on August 22, 2012, and the owner(s) was still not in compliance with the violation. The property failed its third inspection on or about September 26, 2012.

Accordingly, the case was sent to Municipal Court on October 3, 2012. The matter is in “Pre-Court” status. In addition, on April 5, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued violations for CLIP, as well as for failing to remove rubbish/garbage from the rear of the property (L&I Service No. 375209). These violations are still listed as “not complied”. Taylor again reported the high weeds and debris in the rear of the parcel on June 5, 2013 (Ticket No. 2943516). On June 24, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violations notice, as well as violations for rubbish/garbage, and high weeds, in the rear yard (L&I Service No. 387866). The rear yard was abated during the week of July 25, 2013, and the property was cleaned and sealed on or about August 16, 2013. On September 17, 2013, Taylor again forwarded a request for assistance to Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP as the high grass and feces fill the rear yard. On September 6, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation, as well as a violation for failing to cut high weeds (L&I Case No. 403279). The parcel was cleaned and sealed on October 30, 2013. On October 8, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit again issued a CLIP violation notice, as well as a violation for having three unregistered vehicles in the side yard (L&I Case No. 406265). On November 25, 2013, the owner brought the violations into compliance.

2512 Gaul Street: Ticket No. 2322459. Several neighbors reported this property, which they believed is occupied by squatters. Specifically, said occupants are “hoarding” refuse and debris, both inside and outside of the premises. Taylor received reports of a foul odor emanating from the property. Moreover, the basement is full of sewage, due to the water being turned off, which has spread to the adjacent homes. Finally, the weeds in the rear yard are overgrown. The interior and exterior smell from animal feces, and the property owners, Salvatore A. Finazzo and Eric Rosen, have failed to remedy this urgent and dangerous situation. The owners’ contact address is listed as the same as the subject property. Pursuant to several neighborhood complaints, Marc Collazzo went to the parcel, took photographs and observed that the rear upper window was wide open to ingress/egress. The front screen-door had been removed. Moreover, the side water drain was covered in several inches of dirt/debris, which caused flooding to adjacent properties. Finally, a foul odor emanated from the backyard due to the prior owner putting fecal matter in the rear garden to make compost. Accordingly, Taylor, on July 23, 2012, forwarded requests for service to Philly 311, Mortgage Contracting Services and Bank of America, respectively. On July 24, 2012, Sarah Bonner of Mortgage Contracting Services advised Taylor that the company would dispatch someone to inspect the property and repair the aforementioned problems. On August 22, 2012, Taylor e-mailed Inspector John Grace, who advised Taylor that the case for 3228 Edgemont Street (L&I service No. 336730), and the next and final inspection was scheduled for September 13, 2012. This property failed the September 13, 2012 inspection, so the Housing Code Enforcement Unit sent this matter to Court. The matter is in "Pre-Court" processing. On March 7, 2013, Taylor referred this matter to Scioli Turco for investigation and filing of a Conservatorship Action under Act 135. However, Taylor learned on June 16, 2014, Mariusz Kurpaska, 3304 Almond Street, purchased this property for $50,000.00 by way of Sheriff's Sale. On January 14, 2016, the Housing Code Enforcement issued a violation for failing to obtain a vacant structure license (L&I Case No. 517712). On February 5, 2016, District East issued violations and a stop work order to the property owner for performing HVAC and electrical repairs without the necessary permits (L&I Case No. 519125). On February 19, 2015, the owner obtained a major alteration permit, no. 670486, to include the installation of sheetrock. On February 22, 2016, the owner also obtained an electrical permit, no. 671329, to perform various installations of wiring circuits throughout the premises. The property owner brought all violations into compliance on or about May 2, 2016.

1222 Fillmore Street: Ticket No. 2417390. Taylor inspected this longstanding vacant property on July 31, 2012, and observed a parcel that was near collapse. Specifically, the grass/weeds in the front and rear were overgrown. The wood porch was rotted and covered with refuse and debris. The front doors and windows were open to ingress and egress and, as a result, the copper piping was removed. Finally, a foul odor emanated from the residence. American General Financial Services (888-625-7544) took control of the real property from the owner, Charles Beveann Lessemore. Therefore, on August 1, 2012, Taylor forwarded a request for assistance to Philly 311, as well as contacted the REO Department of American General Financial Services to demand immediate action/repairs. CLIP has open violations against this property for the need to cut high weeds throughout the parcel, as well as the requirement for the owner to remove refuse from the exterior of the real property, including the front porch (337710). On August 17, 2012, the Clean and Seal Unit abated the property for a CLIP violation, exterior refuse on the exterior of the parcel and front porch and the need to cut weeds throughout the property (337710). In addition, on August 21, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit found “not complied” violations for failing to secure the side door and basement level window of the vacant building (L&I Service No. 345436), as well as failure to obtain a license for a vacant residential building (L&I Service No. 345440). On October 24, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit sent this property to Court for failing to obtain a license for a vacant residential building (L&I Service No. 345440). On October 25, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit found that that the owner(s) complied with the remaining violations under service number 345436. The remaining violation(s) under service number 345440 were listed a “complied” on August 21, 2013. On May 11, 2013, Ocwen Loan Servicing, Inc., 2002 Summit Boulevard, Suite 600, Atlanta, GA 30319, obtained a license for a vacant residential property, no. 593316, which expires on the last day of February, 2014. On November 18, 2013, District East issued violations for not having an electrical permit, as well as having faulty wiring throughout the parcel (L&I Case No. 411249), which was brought into compliance on December 19, 2013. On December 19, 2013, District East issued violations for certain construction violations, including having missing receptacles in the 12 inch counter in the kitchen and wall space in the living room, kitchen, dining room, second floor hall, middle bedroom on the second floor and third floor master bedroom. In addition, the latter violations included not having the required heating/ac/refrigeration receptacle, as well as for failing to update the circuit directory in the basement (L&I Case No. 414606). On or about January 23, 2014, all open violations were brought into compliance.

1237 Fillmore Street: Ticket Nos. 2417812, 2519723 and 2956556. Taylor also inspected this vacant property on July 31, 2012, and found overgrown grass/weeds in the front and rear yards of this dilapidated parcel. The doors and windows have not been properly secured pursuant to the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code. Finally, the wood porch was near collapse and the exterior structure was damaged. On August 1, 2012, Taylor forwarded a request for assistance to Philly 311 and is attempting to locate the property owner, Traore Hamallah. The owner, on July 12, 2012, had complied with past open CLIP and high weed violations under L&I service number 335601. On August 30, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that the property was inspected and no violations were written against the owner. However, several neighbors again contacted Taylor with complaints if high grass/weeds in the rear yard, rodent infestation and open windows on the property. Therefore, on September 25, 2012, Taylor forwarded requests for assistance to Philly 311, Thomas Conway of CLIP and Vector Control (rodents), respectively. On November 5, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations for failing to have a license for a vacant residential building (L&I Service Number 358175), as well as for failing to clean weeds/plants, and failing to secure a vacant building (L&I Service Number 358169). The Housing Code Enforcement Unit “cleaned and sealed” the real property on January 7, 2013. The violations under service number 358175 were sent to Court on or about February 25, 2013, and are still awaiting a hearing date. On June 11, 2013, Taylor sent a request for service to both Thomas Conway of CLIP and Philly 311 due to overgrown weeds/grass, as well as debris, in the rear of the parcel (Ticket No. 2956556). On June 20, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation notice, as well as a violation for failing to cut high weeds throughout the property (L&I Service No. 387104). On July 10, 2013, Taylor sent an urgent request to Thomas Conway of CLIP to cut the high weeds in the rear yard as they exceed six (6) feet in height. Mr. Conway confirmed the property would be abated within seven (7) days. On July 22, 2013, Mr. Conway confirmed to Taylor that the property had been abated on both July 20, 2013 and August 26, 2013, respectively.

2329 East Allegheny Avenue: Ticket Nos. 2453825 and 2511763. On August 21, 2012, a local block captain brought this longstanding vacant, blighted property to Taylor's attention. Loose bricks were falling from the front exterior of the property. In addition, a tree was growing through the rear deck, and there was refuse and overgrown weeds in the rear yard. Moreover, much of the debris in the back of this parcel was used syringes and condoms! The owner of this real property is Doria P. Evangelista, 1601 Clark Drive, Yardley, PA 19067-4376. Taylor immediately forwarded requests for service to both Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP, respectively. Further, Taylor forwarded correspondence to the owner to demand remediation of this dangerous parcel. On September 4, 2012, the inspector was at the parcel and determined the property was now in compliance. On September 20, 2012, Taylor forwarded an updated request for assistance to Philly 311 due to the open doors and windows on the property. On October 12, 2012, as a result of the new request for service (2511763), L&I again investigated the property and found it to be in compliance. However, on January 3, 2013, the Contractual Services Unit issued violations for a loose wall/missing bricks in the front corner of the property, as well as partially collapsed front roof (L&I Service No. 364657). As of January 9, 2014, these violations are still listed as "not complied" and designated as "unsafe".

4745 Garden Street: Ticket No. 2458660. About four (4) years ago, the owner of this parcel demolished the residence on the real property and a fenced, vacant lot has existed since then. The weeds and grass in this parcel are overgrown, and the lot is covered in refuse and debris. Moreover, the surrounding fence extends until the end of the sidewalk on Garden Street, thereby preventing those who park their automobiles there to open and close the door(s) to their motor vehicles. On August 23, 2012, Taylor forwarded requests for service to Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP, respectively. In addition, Taylor forwarded correspondence to the property owner, Richard B. Schroth, 7519 Msgr. Fallon Drive, Pennsauken, NJ 08109-3236, to demand these issues be immediately addressed and corrected. However, the Community Life Improvement division has open violations for failing to maintain/clean to the exterior lot (L&I Service No. 290095). On September 11, 2012, the service request for clean-up was completed. However, the violations listed under service number 290095 are still listed as "not complied". Accordingly, on June 11, 2013, the City of Philadelphia demolished the property.

1131 Fillmore Street: On August 21, 2012, Taylor reported this vacant property to L&I due to ongoing code violations, as well as due to neighborhood concerns about the possibility of the owner opening a boarding house at this location. L&I informed Taylor that on August 18, 2012, a violation was issued against the owner, John R. Fisher, 238 Brown Street, Spring City, PA 19475, for not having permits to work (L&I Service No. 345018). The next scheduled inspection was scheduled for September 29, 2012. However, on August 22, 2012, Taylor received neighbor complaints that work continued despite the violation. Accordingly, Taylor promptly notified the 15th Police District, who dispatched officers to the premises. Gerard James, Manager of the Construction Services Unit of L&I, contacted Taylor on August 23, 2012 that the owner obtained an electrical permit, and, as a result of this permit application, L&I could now have access and contact information for entry to the site. The District Supervisor will be reaching out to the listed electrical contractor to gain access for a thorough inspection. Mr. James advised Taylor that code violations and a formal Stop Work order would be issued as needed. Finally, Mr. James stated that “there are no permit applications to change the use of the building into a boarding home.” On September 14, 2012, Mr. James advised Taylor that any work being done in and on the real property was being performed according to a valid permit. The interior had yet to be inspected as the electrical contractor has not yet received the approved work order from the underwriter. On or about October 11, 2012, Gerard James informed Taylor that the property was in compliance with the Philadelphia Property Maintenance Code, and that all work was being performed pursuant to valid permits. However, on December 5, 2013, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation notice, as well as for having rubbish/garbage throughout the exterior of the property and for failing to cut high weeds on the side of the property (L&I Case No. 413186). CLIP abated the property on December 30, 2013.

3057 Aramingo Avenue: Ticket No. 2491032. On August 23, 2012, a neighbor notified Taylor of this deteriorated vacant property. The parcel (front and rear) is consumed with overgrown weeds/grass with refuse and debris. Jay and Matthew Price, P.O. Box 151, Feasterville (Trevoise), PA 19053, are the designated owners. The owners list an address at 38 Woodbridge Court, Langhorne, PA 19053. On August 24, 2012, Taylor forwarded requests for assistance to Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP, respectively. The investigations are pending. On September 7, 2012, an inspector from L&I visited the premises, but was unable to gain access. Taylor is working with local residents to ensure that the inspector is able to gain entry and properly inspect the parcel. On September 26, 2012, Taylor provided L&I with a contact person to allow entry for immediate inspection. On October 16, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued a violation for weeds/plants in the rear yard (L&I Service No. 355720). On January 8, 2013, the matter was sent to court. The matter is in “Pre-Court” processing. It is important to note that on July 13, 2006, the owners obtained a housing inspection license, number 376951, which expired on the last day of February, 2013. On May 15, 2014, cleaned all the trash and removed the weeds from the property.

2535 Sepviva Street: This vacant property fell into disrepair the owner, Lisa G. Querubin, 202 Bennett Road, Cape May Courthouse, NJ 08210-2206, vacated same. Since that time, the residence has fallen apart, with several exposed windows. In addition, the exterior front and rear yards are congested with overgrown grass/weeds and refuse/debris. The City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $4,920.12. On August 24, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that the Department had an open case for this parcel (L&I service no. 307755), for failing to replace at least 80% of the faulty windows, as well as failing to obtain a license for a vacant residential property. This open case has been sent to Court and is in “Pre-Court” status. On October 1, 2012, Taylor sent a status request to L&I, as well as provided a current contact address for the owner, Lisa Querubin, 118 East 17th Avenue, Wildwood, NJ 08260-5531. Her telephone number is (609) 846-7447. As of January 9, 2014, the parcel is still in processing for a hearing. However, on October 22, 2013, Thomas Conway of CLIP informed Taylor that they would be doing clean-up work on that block.

2846 Gaul Street: Ticket Nos. 2465407, 2518788 and 3587736. A neighbor contacted Taylor on August 27, 2012 regarding this vacant property. Specifically, the rear of the parcel was covered in overgrown weeds/grass and filled with refuse and debris. The owner, James J. Lyons, III, 2866 Gaul Street, Philadelphia, PA 19134, failed to maintain the premises for the past two (2) years. Taylor, on August 27, 2012, forwarded requests for service, along with photographs of the existing condition of the premises, to both Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP, respectively. The property was inspected on September 6, 2012, but the ticket had to be closed because the inspector could not gain access to the rear of the parcel. On September 26, 2012, Taylor provided L&I with the contact information of a neighbor so as to allow access to the inspector. The new investigation is pending (2518788). On October 5, 2012, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation, as well as for failure to obtain a rental property license and having five foot high weeds in the rear of the parcel (L&I Service No. 354328). The only open violation, as of May 2, 2013, is for failing to possess a valid vacant property license. On May 7, 2013, at the urging of local residents, Taylor contacted Philly 311 and Thomas McDade of CLIP to request that rear yard be cleaned and the grass cut. In addition, the rear door had been opened compromised. On May 8, 2013, L&I confirmed that they would send a crew to clean and seal the property. On May 17, 2013, the high weeds/grass, as well as the refuse, were cleaned from the rear yard. However, service number 354328 is still listed as “not complied” as the owner does not have a license to rent the property. On August 9, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued a violation for failing to have a “license-res general” (L&I 396922). The aforementioned violations are still listed as “not complied”, and were sent to Court on March 11, 2014. On June 18, 2014, Taylor sent a request to abate the high weeds surrounding the property, as well as for a hole in the pavement in front of the house, to Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP, respectively (Ticket No. 3587736). This case is closed. On July 1, 2014, the Community Life Improvement Unit again issued a CLIP violation notice, as well as a violation for failing to cut high weeds throughout the property (L&I Case No. 440107). On August 7, 2014, the violations under case number 396922 were brought into compliance as the owner, James Lyons III, 20 Robbins Avenue, Rockledge, PA 19046, obtained a vacant property license, number 637332, which expires on the last day of February, 2015. On May 16, 2016, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation notice, as well as for cutting high weeds (L&I Case No. 533665). On May 24, 2016, the Vacant Strategy Unit issued violations for not having a vacant structure license, as well as for failing to secure a front basement window (L&I Case No. 535638). The Vacant Strategy Unit also issued violations for having a “vacant and open” property due to the open basement window (L&I Case No. 535637).

2528 East Somerset Street: This vacant property has become a nuisance to the rest of the neighborhood as the owner failed to secure the doors and windows to the residence, thereby allowing access to “squatters”. In addition, refuse covers the side and rear of the parcel. The real property is owned by Janice Adamczyk and Ronald J. Bujanowski, 2528 East Somerset Street. The City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $8,882.54. The Housing Code Enforcement Unit has an open vacant property violation (L&I Service No. 336337), while the Community Life Improvement Unit has an open violation for rubbish/garbage on the exterior side and rear of the parcel (L&I Service No. 321916). On August 27, 2012, Taylor forwarded an immediate request for service to Philly 311. The investigations are pending, with a third inspection scheduled for September 6, 2012. L&I issued violations on September 6, 2012 for failure to obtain a license for a vacant residential building, as well as failure to replace at least 80% of the defective doors and windows on a vacant property (L&I Service No. 349018). In addition, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit found “not complied” violations for failure to maintain a vacant parcel, and having an unsecured front, side and rear of a vacant building (L&I Service No. 348865). The Housing Code Enforcement Unit cleaned and sealed the parcel on or about September 19, 2012. The final inspection was scheduled for October 10, 2012. Therefore, on October 18, 2012, Taylor forwarded a request for a status report to L&I, who informed Taylor that the violations were still not complied. The third inspection was scheduled for November 14, 2012, and the owners were found to be compliance by obtaining a vacant property license and replacing 80% of the doors and windows on the subject property (L&I Service No. 349018). Service number 321916 from CLIP is still open.

2747 Buckius Street: Ticket No. 2477106. The rear yard to this vacant parcel is covered in overgrown weeds/grass and full of refuse and debris. Moreover, there is a large tree in the back of the property in which the branches have extended into adjacent properties and caused damage to their respective residences. The real estate is owned by Kevin Ferguson, 1222 Whitney Road, Southampton, PA 18966. On September 4, 2012, Taylor forwarded requests for assistance to Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP, respectively. On September 20, 2012, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation notice, as well as a citation for failing to trim overgrown branches on a rear tree (L&I Service No. 351489). On October 15, 2012, neighbors advised Taylor that the troublesome tree was cut down! However, on October 5, 2012, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a CLIP violation notice, as well as a citation for the rear tree with overhanging branches that encroach into the rear yard (L&I Service No. 351489). As of January 9, 2014, those violations are all listed as “not complied”. Finally, the owner obtained a housing inspection license, no. 581310, on January 7, 2013, which will expire on the last day of February, 2014.

2419 East Letterly Street: Ticket Nos. 2501519 and 2669201. On September 14, 2012, Taylor forwarded requests for assistance to Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP, respectively, as the rear portion of this vacant real property was on the verge of collapse. In addition, the grass/weeds in the rear yard were overgrown and the yard was full of refuse/debris. Finally, Taylor obtained the services of Vector Pest Control (215-685-9000) to exterminate the roaches surrounding the exterior of the parcel. The owner of the property is listed Robert W. Lightwine. On September 18, 2012, L&I found the property to be in compliance as Vector provided service to the real property. It must be noted that on or about April 4, 2012, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit determined that the owner(s) complied with violations for failure to obtain a license for a vacant building, failing to clean rubbish in the rear yard and failure to secure a vacant property. However, on December 20, 2012, Taylor forwarded a new request for assistance to Philly 311 and someone “broke open” the boards covering the windows and doors in an attempt to gain illegal entry. On December 17, 2012, a request was submitted to L&I for a clean and seal, which should occur within thirty (30) days. As the owner is deceased, Taylor provided L&I with the contact information for the Executor of the Decedent’s Estate, Frank Hurst. The Estate was opened on May 14, 2009 by Theresa P. Brady, Esquire, 200 East Girard Avenue, Philadelphia, PA. 215-426-1020. On January 17, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit closed the new complaints as the owner complied with violations for failing to have license on vacant residential building, as well as for failing to clean rubbish/garbage and securing a vacant property (L&I Service No. 307557). However, on October 8, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations for failing to clean weeds/plants in the rear of the property, as well as for failing to have a license for a vacant residential building (L&I Case No. 406206). The owner of this property was listed to be Edward Carl Wagner, 2515 Rosewood Street, Philadelphia, PA 19145. On September 14, 2012, Taylor sent a request for assistance to both Philly 311 and Thomas Conway of CLIP to cut the grass and remove the debris. The investigations are pending. Therefore, On October 18, 2012, Taylor sent a request for status to L&I, who informed Taylor that it was still waiting on the initial inspection and it would be completed no later than October 30, 2012. However, as of November 29, 2012, no action was taken. As a result, on November 29, 2012, Taylor contacted Maura Kennedy of L&I for assistance to complete the investigation. On November 30, 2012, L&I informed Taylor that the matter was closed on October 26, 2012 as the inspector “did not see overgrown weeds at the time of the inspection”. Accordingly, the owner was found to be in compliance. It is important to note that the instant owner’s housing inspection license, number 487384, expired on the last day of February, 2012.

3109 Chatham Street: Ticket No. 2526165. The instant property has been vacant for over one (1) year after the death of the owner, Thomas Menga Swenson. The City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $1,946.28. Since that time, the residence has fallen into disrepair with the air conditioner in the front window in danger of falling. In addition, the upstairs front window, as well as, the basement window, are open to ingress/egress. Finally, the parcel is infested with rodents. On September 28, 2012, Taylor forwarded requests for assistance to Philly 311 and Vector Control (215-685-9000). On or about October 2, 2012, Vector appeared at the property to exterminate any rodents. L&I did not issue any violations. Taylor will continue to monitor the situation. However, on November 13, 2012, neighbors informed Taylor that the front basement window was broken, the adjacent residents boarded up another window and the back of the house is unstable. Accordingly, Taylor forwarded an updated request for service to Philly 311. On November 14, 2012, Philly 311 informed Taylor that L&I referred the matter to Inspector Michael Curran of the Housing Code Enforcement Unit for investigation (215-686-2588 or 2593). On December 5, 2012, neighbors informed Taylor that the upstairs windows to the property were secured.

In addition, Taylor forwarded correspondence to the property owner demanding her immediate action. On October 4, 2012, the Community Life Improvement Unit issued a notice of violation for high weeds in the rear of the property (L&I Service No. 354052). On December 28, 2012, CLIP found that the owner had remedied and complied with the violations.

4051 Dungan Street: Ticket No. 2541658. On October 6, 2012, neighbors contacted Taylor about the refuse and dangerous debris covering the front and rear of this dangerous occupied real property. The debris included used needles and syringes. In addition, the grass and weeds were so overgrown that they were infringing on adjacent properties. The parcel is owned by Ayyad Haytham, 200 Evergreen Avenue, Woodlynne, NJ 08107. On October 8, 2012, Taylor forwarded requests to Philly 311, Thomas Conway of CLIP and Officer Tina Willis of the 24th Police District, respectively. Taylor, after reviewing the L&I history for this property, learned that the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued violations on September 14, 2012 for rubbish/garbage in the front and rear of the property, as well as for weeds/plants in the front of the parcel (L&I Service No. 350582). Those violations for rubbish/garbage are still listed as "not complied", and, as a result, on December 31, 2012, this matter was sent to Court. The owner did cut the high weeds. However, on September 17, 2012, the owner obtained an active housing inspection license, number 573570, for this property, which will expire on the last day of February, 2014.

In addition, the rear yard is covered in refuse and debris. The property is owned by Joseph B. Fedorowycz and Marlaina Laughlin, and the City of Philadelphia holds real estate tax liens in the amount of $7,717.50. This matter is still listed as "not complied". It must be noted that on August 13, 2010, the Community Life Improvement Unit sent this parcel to Court for a CLIP violation notice, failing to clean trash on the side of the property, failing to remove personal property on the exterior side of the residence, having high weeds on the side and rear, and failing to repair the exterior front steps (L&I Service No.

217966). On June 20, 2013, a CLIP inspector came to the property and informed a neighbor that he would be issuing new violations for high weeds/grass. Unfortunately, CLIP could not get onto the property to abate the parcel as the gate was locked and it is private property. On July 16, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued a "vacant property standard" violation, as well as for failing to vacant building (L&I Case No. 392139). In addition, said Unit issued a violation for failing to have a license for a vacant residential building, as well as for failing to repair/replace 80% of defective doors and windows (L&I Case No. 392146). On January 27, 2013, neighbors contacted Taylor as they were concerned the parcel was on the verge of collapse. Mr. Gallagher stated that the real property was designated "inherently dangerous" and L&I is in the process of determining if the property can be salvaged by going to Court, or if it needs to be demolished. On April 3, 2013 and April 10, 2013, Taylor contacted Steve Gallagher and Michael Maenner of L&I for a status, and is awaiting a reply. On April 26, 2013, Steve Gallagher informed Taylor that L&I would immediately re-inspect the property and give the owner ten (10) days to respond. Assuming this does not occur, the City will bid the instant property for demolition by the end of the fiscal year. On June 11, 2013, neighbors contacted Taylor as the subject property had become the location of illegal drug use. Taylor contacted Police

On June 26, 2013, L&I secured the property. However, on August 7, 2013, the Housing Code Enforcement Unit issued a violation for failing to have a license for a vacant residential building (L&I Case No. 396279). This violation was closed on December 5, 2013. On September 28, 2013, Taylor made a request for service to Philly 311, the 15th and 24th Police Districts, and Police Officers Tina Willis and Michael Wheeler, as local kids have broken into the home by way of second floor windows, which are still open. On November 6, 2013, Taylor forwarded a request for assistance to Philly 311 and the 15th Police District about a “squatter” breaking into the residence by way of the front door and removed the upstairs, front window air conditioner. Finally, the rear is covered in refuse and debris. Taylor immediately forwarded a request for assistance to Philly 311. On March 7, 2013, Michael Maenner of L&I contacted Taylor from the subject parcel and observed the chimney to be in good, stable condition, and the rear yard was clear. Since that time, the upstairs, front windows of the real property have been removed, as well as the copper piping and interior fixtures. In addition, refuse and debris fill the side alley. Most important, the front of the residence is starting to “bow”, causing bricks to loosen and fall, causing a danger to local residents. On March 8, 2013, Taylor forwarded an immediate request for assistance to Philly 311. The investigation is pending, but there is no Licenses and Inspections violations or history for this parcel. Having heard no response, on April 19, 2013, Taylor sent a second request for service to Philly 311. As of May 30, 2013, L&I found no violations against this parcel and that all lower doors and windows were properly sealed. Taylor will continue to monitor this property. On July 2, 2013, Taylor forwarded a new complaint due to a foul odor emanating from the property, as well as high weeds and standing water in the rear yard (Ticket No. 2993144). The matter was “unfounded”. However, an adjacent neighbor kept stating that there were three (3) open windows on the top floor and when it rains, the water seems through to the adjacent property. In addition, Taylor also contacted L&I, and on August 4, 2016, the Vacant Strategy Unit issued a violation for failing to have a license for a vacant, residential property (L&I Case No. 548738). L&I sent this violation to Court on or about November 9, 2016. In addition, on January 3, 2017, the Vacant Strategy Unit issued violations for having a “vacant and open” property (L&I Case No. 568982). On January 24, 2017, L&I properly boarded up, and secured, the lower level of the parcel.

2550 East Birch Street: This longstanding vacant property is owned by Piotr Orybkiewicz, 2613 East Birch Street, Philadelphia, PA 19134. The City of Philadelphia assessed the real property with a value of $128,400.00. All real estate taxes have been paid in full. On April 20, 2017, Taylor contacted L&I and Thomas Conway of CLIP as the exterior yards of the parcel are covered with trash and high weeds. The exterior façade and roof of the residence are decaying, and a foul odor emanates from the interior of the parcel. Taylor also forwarded correspondence to the property owner to request his immediate assistance in remedying these violations.
